Arthur Show Is Through, Season Rough on Names

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "The Jean Arthur Show," only 12 episodes old, departed from network television Monday night — a comedy series that had everything except comedy scripts.

Miss Arthur, who can do more with a bright line than most actresses, struggled and clowned gallantly, but no one could overcome the handicap of those dreary scripts.

All Falls Into Heap
The final show, like the others, was given a glossy and professional production. But just when some substance was needed from the plot, everything fell into a ridiculous heap.

The plot of the final show had something to do with Mrs. Marshall — played by Miss Arthur — and her son — Ron Harper — quarreling and breaking up their law partnership. This in turn led to having them on opposite sides in a murder trial.

So far, so good, but when Miss Arthur and Harper had their courtroom scene, the supposedly invincible lady lawyer dissolved into a series of sentimental daydreams that had her adult son conducting the prosecution in various phases of his life, from infancy on. It was so bad that even the laugh track sounded embarrassed.

Next week the spot will be filled by "To Tell the Truth," a day-time panel game that has been around for years.

The season has been a rough one for some very big star names. Miss Arthur, Milton Berle and Garry Moore have received midseason cancellations, and Danny Kaye limps off at the end of the season — all victims of bad ratings.

The mass television audience may not always agree with the critics in its choice of programs, but it obviously knows what it likes. On the night last month when Red Skelton's "Clown Alley" special pre-empted Kaye's Wednesday night hour on CBS, it attracted an audience almost twice as large as Kaye did a week later.

Bonanza on Top
Skelton occupied two positions in the Nielsen top 10 released Monday. "Clown Alley" was in third place and Red's regular Tuesday night hour was in fourth.

NBC's "Bonanza" was, as usual, in the top spot, followed by CBS' "Lucy Show." CBS' Jackie Gleason Show, Andy Griffith Show and Green Acres, NBC's Bob Hope comedy special with Bing Crosby, CBS' Beverly Hillsbillies and NBC's Saturday Night at the Movies completed the list of most popular shows in the two-week period ending Nov. 20.

CBS led NBC in the Nielsen averages by the narrowest of margins—one-tenth of one percent — with ABC trailing by almost three points.

Most popular new series are ABC's "Rat Patrol" in 27th position, CBS' "Family Affair," 31st and NBC's "Tarzan," 32nd. Recommended tonight: "Hurok Presents," CBS, 9:30-11 EST, musical salute to the impresario, with solos by Van Cliburn, Isaac Stern and Andres Segovia and narrated by Marl Anderson.

RCA a Big Angel

NEW YORK (AP)—Affiliates of the Radio Corporation of America are increasing their patronage of Broadway productions. The RCA Victor Division earlier this year allotted $1.5 million to David Merrick for across-the-board financing of ventures. Now NBC has put $100,000 into "Walking Happy."

Halfway House Data Made Known

One of the functions of the Ulster County Association for Mental Health — a Community Chest Agency — is the promotion of the local mental health facilities.

Such a facility is the Middletown Halfway House, located at 99 Clinton Avenue. Passers-by may notice a very attractive residence and a well tended garden, but many will not know how this home differs from others on the street.

It is a "sheltered residence," for some 25 persons, men and women of all ages from about 17 years, who have responded to treatment in a psychiatric hospital and who are ready for discharge, but who have no suitable home of their own to which to go. This facility is based on modern medical knowledge that many people who need psychiatric hospitalization have become ill partly because of feelings of loneliness, lack of self-confidence, and fears that may not be understood.

During the course of their hospitalization, patients are helped to overcome some of their fears through being given the opportunity to do constructive work, and to socialize. Patients chosen for the Halfway House are carefully selected as being ready to make the next move in living within a normal community, taking care of some of their own household needs, and getting increased and specialized vocational training; and at the same time having the advantage of supervision by the specialist staff of the House.

Kingston was chosen several years ago, as the community for one of the few Halfway Houses in New York State, financed by a grant from the National Institute for Mental Health, and supervised by the Middletown State Hospital.

Many of the residents of the Halfway House receive vocational evaluation and training at Gateway Industries in Kingston. This is a sheltered workshop for training and rehabilitation, which is founded on the same general belief pervading all the mental health field today, that the way toward mental health for all people is to have work they can do confidently, know they can care for themselves, and that they can have friends and an enjoyable life within a community.

The residence is only for certain selected patients from Middletown State Hospital. It does not accept residents from any other source. Contrary to some local expectations, it does not provide facilities for alcoholics, drug addicts, or for other persons in need of care and treatment.

Dr. Luigi Pellegrini is the psychiatrist-in-charge of the House. The staff consists of resident assistant supervisors, housemothers, part-time social worker and part-time recreation leader.

Interested persons in the community are welcome, both as visitors, and as helpers in bridging the gap between institutional hospital living of the past and a full community social life.

Area Planner Speaks at Vegas Stressing Goals

Planning, to be successful, must first concern itself with the question of goals — "what we hope to achieve, and for whom," C. David Locks, president of Mid Hudson Pattern for Progress, Inc., said today in Las Vegas.

Locks, one of the speakers at the National League of Cities Congress of Cities, a four-day national convention attended by more than 3,000 government officials from all municipal levels, stressed that the "question of goals should be approached comprehensively, and the people affects also must be dealt into the game."

"We're making a mess of our environment," he declared. "Our present efforts to guide its growth and development are not working, and thoughtful people agree that it is time to re-examine fundamentals."

Referring to his experience in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area, where he was director of the Twin Cities Metropolitan Planning Commission, Mr. Locks outlined three basic approaches to determining community values and goals:

"First, we simply looked around, inferring from what the people were actively pursuing, what they apparently thought was important. In the process we gained an insight into the kinds of problems that our still unformed policies and programs would have to respond to, if they were to be successful."

"The second approach was more direct. We went out and talked to people—this taking the form of an in-depth interview of 4,500 residents concerning their basic attitudes toward the environment. Also, it was the only way we knew for the man in the street to get his two cents in at the start of the planning process, rather than at the point where all the conclusions are developed..."

Thirdly, his department designed a series of alternative policies for meeting prescribed goals, and these were tested on representative groups in the community, both public and private.

In September, Locks was appointed president and chief executive officer of Mid Hudson Pattern for Progress, Inc., a regional planning, research and development organization, charged with fostering a balanced plan for the economic,

There was some discussion about having an inventory of club property, and that some one keep a record of the property, seeing that it be stored in a proper place.

Earle Sherwood reported that he has a large number of members signed up for the Christmas party to be held at Deane's Restaurant in Woodstock, on Dec. 17 at 7:30 p. m.

At the next Sauersties meeting on Jan. 5, Sherwood will give a talk on Coins of the Century. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Woburn, Robert Moser, and Vincent Jordan.

Spades Give Big Advantage

By Oswald & James Jacoby

One of the points discussed by Albert Morehead in "Morehead on Bidding" is the difference between suits. When each side has approximately the same high card strength and all hands are balanced the chances are that either side can make two odd in its best suit. When the hands are more unbalanced it is likely that each side can make game or even slam in their best suit.

In all these situations the side with the spades has a tremendous advantage. South had a good spade bid and North a normal raise to two spades. The spade raise improves South's hand to the extent that he can afford to jump to game. In spite of the fact that North and South only have 18 high and knocked out the ace of trumps but East cashed a high club and continued the suit. West was able to make a trick with the jack of trumps and this East-West pair secured the only plus score of the table.

primarily to undertake geological programs and the assault on Vinson Massif is incidental to the main work Clinch said.

Social Agencies Requests Needy Lists by Dec. 14

Louis H. Schafer, president of the Ulster County Council of Social Agencies, today issued a statement to all organizations, clubs and any one else planning to give food baskets to needy families this Christmas, requesting them to prepare their lists before Dec. 14. On that evening a meeting will be held at the Salvation Army Hall on North Front Street at 7:30 p. m.

The purpose of this meeting will be to clear lists, avoiding duplications and making sure that all needy receive a food basket. All groups are asked to send a representative with their list to this meeting. If this is not possible groups are asked to send lists typed and double spaced, either to Brigadier Major Mrs. Jacob Hohn of the Salvation Army or to Schafer.

Any new groups who are giving food baskets this year for the first time are invited to attend this meeting.

Those who need assistance are requested to make applications to the organization of their choice before Dec. 12. Only one basket will be allowed to each family.

GOVERNMENT SPENDING

Serious comment on the snowballing expansionist trend of government was made by Garth A. Shoemaker, president of the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey at a taxation meeting held here. Spending projects always are presented as being in response to public demand. The fact is that they do not originate with the public and the public does not know what is involved.

The taxpayers, the people who pay the bills, must insist on economy to resist inflation. For what is the money being spent? This is always a good question to ask.

Taxpayers are in a grim struggle to increase the level of spendable income and to find means of retaining more of their income for their own purposes. Governments are in the same struggle and seek to increase the level of spendable income by increasing taxes.

It is at this point that the desires of government come into severe and increasing conflict with the desires of taxpayers and the result is a mounting tide of resentment against the expansion of government.

Speaking of the fiscal picture of New York State, he noted that state spending reached $1 billion a year in 1950. Passed $2 billion in 1961 and will exceed $4 billion in the present fiscal year in 1967.

State spending doubled from $1 to $2 billion in eleven years and will have redoubled from $2 to $4 billion in the next six years. After that the 1966-67 state spending plan is not leveling off at the new height. It is a launching pad for soaring to greater heights.

Our national governments have lived within its income in only six of the 21 years since World War 2 and the national debt has grown by more than $60 billion since 1953 when the Korean War ended.

Inflation has reduced the consumers' dollar in the past 25 years to less than half of its purchasing power. We are told incomes have kept pace and we are earning twice as much. This reasoning overlooks the part played by the progressive income tax, which is based on the number of dollars earned and not their value.

We must have effective control of inflationary forces through reduction of deficit spending by government. That control, that reduction, should be achieved by holding down the excessive spending for domestic purposes and not by further increasing the tax burden.

This sounds like the problem of the irresistible force confronted with the immovable object. But there is hope that the force, as represented by the taxpayers, is gaining in influence and cohesion.

Taxation should be a matter of keen personal interest to all taxpayers. The Citizens Public Expenditure Survey, Inc., a non-profit, non-political organization, can lead the way.

FIGHT FOR A MARKET

Seafood producers and handlers were understandably dismayed when the Roman Catholic Friday ban on eating meat was lifted. There is small doubt that in the near future this will bring a substantial drop in the business. There is only one sensible course—to make a determined effort to interest Americans in eating more fish. The industry wisely appears to be adopting this course.

The need for such an effort is plain. The Market Research Corporation foresees a decline of possibly 8 or 10 per cent in fish sales, and has offered this comment and advice: "Even a drop of five per cent in fish sales for the total United States would have serious effects on the industry. Food producers and retailers should plan merchandising programs which would promote fish as a week-around dish."

Such promotion may not have much immediate impact on Americans; we have never, by and large, been a great seafood-consuming people. Per capita consumption of fish is much higher in many other countries. There is no fundamental reason why this cannot be altered, however.

What we see developing now is a classic example of an industry's fight to retain or expand its share of a market—in this case,

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN A CALIFORNIA LESSON FOR THE 'MAYORS' LOBBY'

In 1964 the Urban League made a study of sixty-eight U. S. cities to determine the status of the Negro in a metropolitan environment and separate economic factors were taken into account by the surveyors. Curiously, in the light of what was to happen in Watts, Los Angeles emerged with the best record of all the sixty-eight communities. Compared to Harlem and Chicago, Watts was a fortunate neighborhood.

In the light of the Urban League study the magnitude of the so-called "Watts riot," which resulted in thirty-four deaths, 4,000 arrests, and the destruction of $40 million in property, must remain one of the stranger mysteries of recent history. But even more curious has been the magnificent response of leading businessmen to the disaster that hit Los Angeles. Instead of waiting to the world that their city had gone less to deserve its Negro rebellion than sixty-seven other major cities in the United States, the Los Angeles businessmen, working through a Chamber of Commerce committee, decided to do something positive to change the image of their community.

In the fifteen months since the Watts uprising the Los Angeles business community has accomplished what can only be described as a near-miracle. It has cut the number of the Watts-area unemployed, which stood at 25,000 in September of 1965, almost in half. Yet this heartening story has had little publicity in any of the big urban centers of the U. S. East Coast or the industrial Midwest. Why? One can only suppose that, since the "cure" for Watts has been largely carried out by private industry, it hasn't shone forth as "public business." If Mayor Lindsay of New York or Mayor Daley of Chicago had only managed to do half as well on public funds toward eradicating Negro unemployment in their particular slums, the story would have been blazoned for all over the nation.

What is so impressive about the Los Angeles story is that it began with the action of a seven-man committee which had no funds worth mentioning. Set up by the Chamber of Commerce on the same day that the McCone Investigating Commission was formed, the seven-man committee discovered from existing job agencies that the 25,000 Watts unemployed co-existed with an actual shortage of skilled and semi-skilled workers throughout industry in metropolitan Los Angeles. The problem, realistically defined, was to match jobs with potential jobholders. The seven-man committee dispatched a telegram to the presidents of 100 major corporations in the Los Angeles region. Invited to attend a one-hour conference in the Board Room of the Chamber of Commerce, 100 presidents came.

From this point on, the movement to watch qualified Watts-area residents with the jobs that had been going begging took on avalanche speed. The California Employment Service, with an office in the heart of the 46-square-mile Watts "curfew area," met with a committee of top personnel men formed by the 100 companies and with a 50-member all Negro businessmen's committee. Within three months, more than 100 had been hired from the Watts area by the 100 interested firms.

This was Phase One of the operation. Phase Two was set in motion by the creation of a non-profit organization called the Management Council for Merit Employment, Training and Research, with H. C. McClellan, chairman of the board of the Old Colony Paint and Chemical Company, acting as president. Financing was provided by six aerospace companies, which subscribed $25,000. The Haynes Foundation of Los Angeles and the Ford Foundation each put up $50,000. And the number of directly participating corporations was increased from the original 100 to 267. Later, with smaller firms enlisted, the last of cooperating companies jumped to 2,600. By March of 1966 the total job placements for the Watts area had reached 4,751. And since then some 7,000 more employable Watts residents have been hired from the Watts area by the 100 interested firms.

The Management Council is currently tackling the problem of the "unemployables," working with Los Angeles "skill centers" that have been underwritten by the government. In the East Coast cities of the U. S., and in the Midwest industrial areas, the "mayors' lobby" wrings its hands and demands billions from Washington to end Negro unemployment. Query: why doesn't the "mayors' lobby" send an emissary to California to learn how a self-respecting community can meet a crisis on its own?

The Doctor's Mailbag

Floating Kidney Surgery Done Only if Necessary By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D. Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—What is an IVP? Does it hurt? A—An intravenous pyelogram (IVP) is an X-ray picture of the kidneys and bladder made after a dye has been injected into a vein. It is used to aid in the diagnosis of kidney stones and tumors, obstruction of the flow of urine from the kidneys to the bladder and stones and tumors in the bladder. It does not hurt any more than putting a needle in a vein for any other purpose.

Q—What is a loose or floating kidney? A—Normally the kidney is held in place by fibrous bands. If the normal support of a kidney becomes so weakened that the kidney, says, you have a floating kidney. It is rare for this to cause any symptoms. In the past, operations to fix a floating kidney in place have been performed for vague pains in the lower back. The operation failed to relieve the pain because it was usually purely muscular in origin. The operation is still done but only when it can be clearly demonstrated that the sagging of the kidney has resulted in kinking of the ureter leading from the kidney to the bladder.

Q—What is the difference between nephritis, glomerulonephritis and pyelonephritis? Could chronic pyelonephritis occur in a person as young as 31? Is it serious? What is the prognosis? A—Nephritis is an inflammation of the kidney. When it involves chiefly the tiny capillary tufts within the kidney it is glomerulonephritis, and when it involves the kidney and the kidney pelvis it is pyelonephritis.

Chronic pyelonephritis can occur at any age. No type of nephritis is to be taken lightly. The prognosis depends on many factors, not the least of which are the skill of the attending physician and the cooperation of the patient. Q—A lab reported that I have latent nephritis. What is it? Can it be cured? A—A recent study indicates that in some persons who have had acute nephritis but who now have normal urine, there is a persistently low blood level of beta globulin. Even though it has been several years since their nephritis was clinically cured, this is evidence of one of three diseases: lupus erythematosus, hepatitis or latent (smoldering or silent) nephritis. If you have the latter, the measures used to treat chronic nephritis should prevent a recurrence of the disease.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

what might be described as the main-dish food market. It will be interesting to see how well the seafood people conduct this battle.

West Germans are worried about gains being made by neo-Nazi candidates. If they need anyone to help them worry, they can call on almost everyone.

A commentator says new programs enacted by Congress created administrative chaos. Republicans are hoping for a chance to bring order out of it in 1968.

"Well, I Don't Know About You, but I'm Going to Turn Protestant!"

Washington News

By BRUCE BLOSSAT Washington Correspondent Newspaper Enterprise Assn. WASHINGTON (NEA)—Highly puzzling to some president-watchers is the fact that Lyndon Johnson is given so little credit by millions of American voters for his massive legislative accomplishments.

It is common to say of the President that he steered to enactment major programs for education, health, housing and welfare which earlier presidents either could not get or did not want.

This is largely true. Yet the very nature of these programs—and the problems they are aimed at—may help to explain why Lyndon the Achiever is not running up a big score in the public opinion polls. With certain significant exceptions (pollution control, for instance), Johnson's catalogue of success is a roster of New Deal-Fair Deal proposals left undone by his predecessors.

Like an old man who lives beyond his time, the unsolved problems these programs attack have probably been with us too long.

In the steady rising affluence of postwar America, the programs evidently have been accepted long since by millions of Americans as desirable and financially feasible.

Carried through Congress on the Johnson flood tide of 1965, the main items of his "Great Society" therefore were quickly banked by the voters as overdue entrees.

Nor did the President get the credit expected from his vigorous sponsorship of the 1964 and 1965 civil rights acts. Huge as was their sweep, they were properly described as "catch up" assaults on problems festering in the land for a century. "Catch ups" obviously do not have the thrust of bold breakthroughs. The beneficiaries have taken them for granted before they came, and are looking beyond to new things.

Here, perhaps, is the real heart of it. Johnson has achieved, in domestic social and civil rights legislation, what millions felt ought to have been done years ago.

The irony of his position is acute. Looking at the mountain he has moved, the mountain some others only chipped at, he hears countless Americans shout—"Not enough!"

Civil rights leaders who a decade back would have been tearfully grateful for a third of their 1964-65 gains call today for fresh advances that require a virtual make-over of U. S. society.

Needy, disadvantaged folk who 30 years ago revered Franklin D. Roosevelt for New Deal proposals less sweeping than some of Johnson's treat the President as if he were simply paying a delinquent water bill.

Lyndon Johnson, then, seems to have been caught in The Overlap. While he has been doggedly ramming through programs for problems yellowing with time, most Americans have had their sights fixed on their never difficulties—criminal terror in their streets and houses, the polluted air and water, the clogging of traffic, the cost of everything.

The President has been fully attentive to these new problems, and has put through programs for some of them. But here his success has been limited with tangible results hardly felt by most people.

A Medicare check in the mail is a welcome reality to the beneficiary, and a proof of Johnson the Achiever at work. But it may be more than canceled out in the recipient's mind if it is stolen from his mail box.

The President really is being asked to meet the problems of two eras. His Great Society effort began the catch up on left-over difficulties from a prior time. If he can now crush crime, clear the air and water, unclog the streets and patch the big nick in the taxpayer's pocket book, he just might still the cries of "not enough" and inch his way back up in the voters favor.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

I noticed a small item on page 21 of the Thursday, Dec. 1, 1966, Freeman. It is about our neighbor, Hudson River City, of Troy.

It seemed the councilmen of that city were thinking very seriously of a proposed pay raise for their city employees, which was to up some $4.28 in the city tax rate. I do not know what opposition they faced, but it is mentioned but not explained, perhaps in Troy the taxpayers have some rights and are consulted now and then, not like in Kingston, anyway, they did not vote the pay raises and they increased the tax some $1.69 instead of $4.28 for 1967. The new tax rate is $37.37 per thousand assessed valuation in Troy. Now each reader who is a Kingston taxpayer, can figure out, what taxes he would pay in Troy for his property.

I take it, come Jan. our Kingston alderman, who meet in our city hall, and who we see, at least once in two years, will now receive $500 more per year, a salary hike, they voted for themselves. Four alderman voted against it. I think all the taxpayers should go and congratulate our alderman, being that Kingston is looking how to pay just ordinary bills for necessities, and wonders where it will get it. Old American housewives used to have egg-money for emergencies. Kingston does not even have egg-money, only taxable property coming down, and they give themselves a raise.

A lady called me from Tannersville. She is interested in a post card of the U and D Station, Haines Falls, which I mentioned in Nov. 22 column. Her late husband worked on the U and D and then the West Shore out of Kingston. Haines Falls was settled by her father's family, and her maiden name was Haines, so she is interested in any cards of that section. Cards given to me by readers, I usually save, as they are one of a kind, but will watch for post cards on Haines Falls for the lady.

25 Years Later: Japan Could Have Been Our Ally, 'If Only'

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—While much attention is currently being given to the anniversary of the surprise attack on Pearl Harbor 25 years ago, little is generally known, even today, about what really happened in the months immediately preceding the outbreak.

American officials had a feeling at the time an attack was imminent, but military men thought it would come in the vicinity of the Philippines. A few weeks before the assault on Pearl Harbor, this correspondent had a long talk here with Admiral Nomura, the Japanese ambassador to the United States, who was plainly worried about a possible war. He felt it would be senseless, and privately remarked:

"If war comes, you will win. But war settles nothing that peaceful negotiation at the opportune moment could not settle much better."

Subsequently a member of the Japanese Parliament who had graduated from an American college called on this writer in Washington that, while the military clique had virtually taken over in Japan, there was still a chance for peace. The Japanese ambassador from Japan later talked at length with this correspondent, who urged that all such information be disclosed just as frankly to the department of State.

Many years later, former President Hoover, upon learning of the strenuous efforts made by Ambassador Nomura to prevent a war, wrote him a letter in which Mr. Hoover said:

Filled With Admiration "In making a study of the period when you so earnestly and ably strove to prevent a war in the Pacific, I find myself time and again filled with admiration for your efforts. And what a better world this would be had your urging been heeded!"

It is a fact that Admiral Nomura wasn't told in advance by his government of the plan to attack in Hawaii or of any decision to break off diplomatic relations with the United States. Cordell Hull, who was secretary of State at the time, voiced his anxiety in cabinet councils. He believed that war with Japan was likely and was well aware that the Hitler Government in Berlin was doing everything it could to consummate a secret alliance with the Tokyo regime.

While American entry into World War II might not have been prevented, due to dangers on the Atlantic side, there is reason to think the Japanese might have become an ally of the West rather than a partner of the Nazi government in Germany. On Nov. 27, 1941, this correspondent wrote in one of his dispatches:

"As befits a delicate negotiation, the conversations between the Japanese and American governments have been carried on with the utmost secrecy. Yet everybody knows that matters of the gravest importance are under discussion. The issues are fundamental, and while there are certain risks in publicity, there are, on the other hand, considerations which would make it possible for the Japanese and the American peoples to avoid friction in the nature of the problem were better understood by the public in both countries."

"The United States holds some trump cards because her financial and economic resources can be of material assistance to both Japan and China in an era of reconstruction, and everybody knows that economically both countries are in desperate circumstances."

Through government control of the press, the people of Japan were kept in the dark about negotiations with the United States. Maybe if worldwide radio had been available to all peoples then the result would have been different.

Lessons Still Important

The lessons of 1941 are more than ever important today. President Johnson by his recent trip to Asia dramatized before all Asian peoples the deep interest of the United States in helping them achieve a better standard of living, the lack of which has enabled the Communists to gain the upper hand in China.

It is apparent, as Ambassador Nomura predicted, that war hasn't settled the Asian dilemma. The peoples of the world, however, are better informed today, and this can lead to constructive steps in Asia such as were taken in Europe in 1947 through the Marshall Plan. Maybe if Asia had been given similar help in the postwar period, China would not have been seized in 1949 by the Communists. Then perhaps there wouldn't have been a Korean War in 1950 or a Vietnam War today, both of which have cost many more billions than would have been needed to finance a plan for economic aid to Asia through the last 20 years.

Radarman Recall Pearl Harbor

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Then we decided to notify the information center at Ft. Shafer on the other side of the island.

"It looked like a tall spike in a field of grass. Then it became exceptionally large — all a great big pulse," he recalled.

Without realizing it, Lockard, then an Army private manning radar equipment on the island of Oahu, was watching the advance of Japanese aircraft toward Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941.

Lockard, now a designer for a Harriesture manufacturing concern, was conducting a routine weekend radar problem with another private George Elliott.

He recalled events of that Sunday morning 25 years ago. "We began plotting the 'echo.' There was progression, a definite path," Lockard said. "Sure, we chewed it over for a while.

"There were a few minutes while we did the plotting," he said. "Then we made the decision to call the center. We kept a log."

Lockard said he spoke to Lt. Kermit A. Tyler, and told him about "our indication that we had a large flight approaching." He said his information was shrugged off "more or less."

Lockard said he doubts that his advance tip could have made that much difference.

"Not much of the damage could have been avoided," Lockard said. "It's another one of those 'What if?' questions."

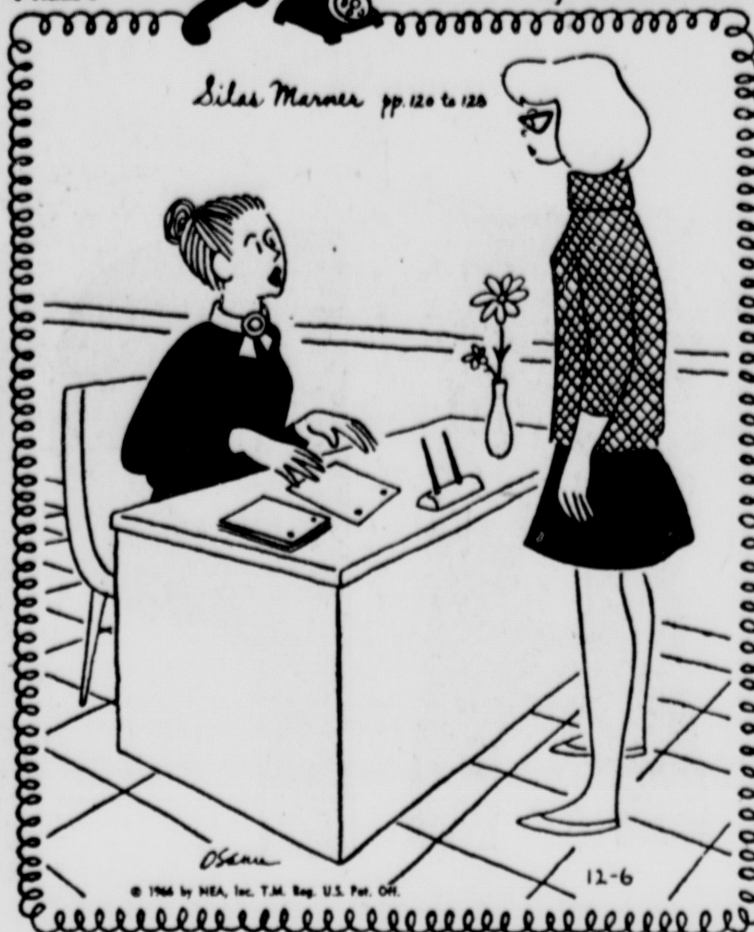

"They certainly couldn't have moved the battleships in time," Lockard added. "Maybe a couple of guys could have gotten to anti-aircraft guns. Who can say?"

Editor, The Freeman:

I have just received a picture of Jean Fox and her dog, Happy, along with the letter to the editor on 'Happiness is a dog named Happy and a girl named Jeanie.' Charge Oswego Man In Woman's Death

OSWEGO, N. Y. (AP)—An Oswego man has been charged with first-degree murder in the strangulation of his estranged wife, Mrs. Catherine Howland, also of Oswego.

Frank H. Howland, 60, was arrested Monday night at Mrs. Howland's home shortly after the couple's son, Charles, had discovered his mother's body. Charles told police he had gone to visit his mother.

Howland was arraigned in City Court and committed to the Oswego County Jail.

Police said the couple had been estranged about a year. Howland lived at a hotel where he worked as a bartender. No motive was revealed.

the hours of work Jean put into learning to travel alone, to cut meat, to set her hair, to arrange her money, to knit; the hours it took Jean to learn to be the Jean that you see now! I do know a little of her struggle for I worked with Jean when she came to the Upstate Rehabilitation Center in December, 1965. And, I know why Jean worked, why she practiced, why she got up at six o'clock in the morning. Jean wanted to be independent—to be like her sisters, to be like you and I. In other words, Jean wanted to take her place in society—to work—to have her paycheck—to have a job.

Jean is a trained medical transcriptionist. She spent months developing skills, learning terminology and typing up reports. Since her return home she has contacted several employers but there seem to be no openings. Locally hundreds of people have been hired—it is hard to believe that in this number there isn't a need for someone to type material from a dictating machine. It is hard to believe that no one needs a charming receptionist, information girl, and typist in his office. Jean is not restricted to medical work alone—she is a typist, and an excellent one at that.

This is not meant as a plea for a job for one girl (although I am sure Jean would be interested if you happen to have a transcribing position opening) but rather as a means of pointing out that persons in any handicapped group have more than their handicap. They have their talents, their skills, their potential. Instead of publicity, most of them prefer a job. Jean would, I'm sure.

I close as I opened, by stating how happy I am that Jean and Happy are known and loved in Kingston. I wait hoping to see the clipping that Jean and Happy are employed, respected citizens in Kingston. Then I, too, will know "happiness."

Sincerely,
M. VERONICA GILLIGAN

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:
Here is a hint I would like to pass along to mothers of soon-to-be bridegrooms.

This is what my husband's mother did for me:
She wrote down many of my husband's favorite recipes on 3" x 5" cards and put them in an attractive recipe box.

Now, when my husband gets hungry for his Mom's cooking, all he does is pick out something he likes and I fix it.

Since he knows that the recipe is from his mother, it somehow tastes "like Mom-used-to-make."

It certainly has been a boon to me as a new bride.

Kathy

Dear Kathy:
Your mother-in-law must be a brilliant and understanding woman to help you please your husband with his favorite foods.

After all, we women should stick together and help each other. We wives want to please our Mother-in-law's sons more than they do.

Love
Heloise

Dear Heloise:
Need a thimble in a hurry? My mother did when the one in her sewing box cracked.

I substituted a bottle cap off a small shampoo bottle.

It worked fine.

Catherine Kurdorfer
Age 12

Dear Heloise:
For people who wear snap-on earrings, and misplace one of them, use the remaining one as a paper clip to hold papers together.

It makes a beautiful decoration for a desk or vanity—which ever one you prefer.

Laura Williams

Dear Heloise:

When I have one of those days where I have a minor-and-one thing to do, I put a sheet of paper on my kitchen counter where it's handy.

As I think of something I have to do before the day is over, I just jot it down on the paper. This relieves my mind of the burden of remembering things.

As I complete a chore, I just cross it off the list.

Lillian White

Dear Heloise:

I could never get house supplies to stay on my life-line, so I bought several pairs of heavy crew socks for him.

He can put them on without any help, and they won't fall off. Also, they keep his feet warm on cold floors.

Mrs. R. L. C.

Dear Heloise:
I have three small children who enjoy marking with crayons. The stains on the daily paper are great for beginners and are a money saver also.

There is always something new and different every day to be colored, and the papers can be discarded every night.

Mrs. W. F.

Dear Heloise:

In sewing drapes, I found they are always very wide, and quite slippery and hard to manage. So I employed the use of a large beach towel by pinning it over the working surface at the left of the sewing machine with two large safety pins.

This aids in holding the material on an even keel! It would also be helpful when sewing silk linings and various other fabrics that have a tendency to slip and slide.

Mrs. O. M. Corbell

Dear Heloise:

Did you ever try wrapping a gift with aluminum foil and then covering the foil with nylon net?

A swag of net for the ribbon or bow tops it off real neat.

Two thicknesses of colored net looks best.

Swim, Anyone

MONTREAL (AP)—A note for swimmers:

The water temperature at the St. Lambert Lock, the St. Lawrence Seaway's eastern end, registered 36 degrees Monday, half a degree higher than the water temperature on Dec. 3, 1965.

If that information fails to stir thoughts of swimming, it is, at least, of importance to the 23 ocean-going ships that are still in the St. Lawrence Seaway and Great Lakes.

The Seaway's official closing was set for Dec. 3, then postponed until today.

The shipping channel will remain open on a day-to-day basis as long as the weather permits. Last year, the seaway was closed Dec. 13.

the Puerto Ricans in the building. For the next year, life in the slums will be the life of the 22-year-old son of one of the world's wealthiest families.

He'll work seven days a week for $50 a month plus room and board and $2.50 a day pocket money because, as he puts it, "I want to help others help themselves."

Rockefeller is the son of Laurance S. Rockefeller, a noted conservationist, and the nephew of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. He was graduated from Harvard last June and spent the summer flying around the world in his private plane.

Young Rockefeller was among 10 persons from across the country who began an eight-week training program Monday to qualify for VISTA, which stands for Volunteers in Service to America.

It meant moving out of the family's swank Fifth Avenue residence into a world of Whopperburgers and apartment buildings festooned with fire escapes.

Part of Laurance's job will be to encourage residents to work in community activities and help them take advantage of city services.

On his first day, the discussion eventually got around to money and Laurance told newsmen: "As you might know, I have money of my own. But I don't plan to touch it while I'm working here. I don't see why $50 a month shouldn't be enough with rent and food taken care of."

The recruits also included Tweed Roosevelt, 24-year-old great-grandson of President Theodore Roosevelt.

Never Had It So Good, Havana Says

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cuban women, says Havana Radio, never had it so good.

No more of that "bourgeois, inferior sex nonsense."

Boasted the Miami-monitored broadcast: "The Cuban women of today are agricultural workers, cane cutters, mechanics, traffic police, members of the revolutionary armed forces and invaluable companions in difficult moments when the fatherland needs their services."

The revolution, they were reminded Monday night, has allowed women to show they can handle heavy work.

The occasion for the broadcast was a national meeting of the Cuban Women's Federation.

Today's Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF, AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It is a time for taking the brightest view possible of the past and projecting great hopes for the future. The process is well under way now, for the economic report of the President is to be published next month.

This document in the past has shown all the skills of the economist in assessing difficult problems and the hopes, foibles and frustrations of both the economist and the politician.

At this time last year, for example, the President was preparing a report that said: "I will also look to the Federal Reserve System to provide assistance in promoting the objectives we all share."

— Meeting the credit needs of a vigorous and growing economy, while preventing excessive credit flows that could carry the pace of expansion beyond prudent speed limits."

Civil Servants
Blood Bank Will Include 127,000

The New York State Department of Civil Service has completed arrangements with The Community Blood Council and Blue Cross of Greater New York (Associated Hospital Service), to establish a blood credit program for employees and families of State and municipal agencies. Initially, about 127,000 individuals in the New York State Employee Health Insurance Program will be covered. The new blood program was spearheaded by the Department of Civil Service, the State Civil Service Employees Association and New York's Blue Cross.

Significant Step

Details of the program were outlined in a meeting at The New York Blood Center by Mary Goode Krone, president of the New York State Civil Service Commission; Edwin R. Werner, Blue Cross vice president and Dr. August H. Groeschel, president of The Community Blood Council of Greater New York. Dr. Groeschel characterized the agreement as a significant step in the Council's program to provide New York with the best in blood supply, service and scientific research.

The Department of Civil Service will be responsible for recruitment of donors to provide sufficient blood to meet the needs of State employees. The participating organizations of The Community Blood Council will provide the facilities for donations at convenient locations. The State Program will be credited for the donations and The Community Blood Council will serve as the administrative and distribution agency.

Blood used on behalf of persons eligible for blood benefits under the Program (whether or not Blue Cross subscribers) will be replaced by the Council and its participating organizations on a unit for unit basis. There will be no blood processing charges for Blue Cross subscribers.

The Blood Credit Program was announced earlier this month by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and will take effect shortly after the first of the year. In announcing the Program, Rockefeller said "these donations will insure that a supply of blood will be available at all times. The program will eventually benefit a large segment of the state's population, for it covers the families and dependents of thousands of State and local workers."

Posed Key Questions

In describing "the new economic environment" early this year, the 1966 report accurately posed these as the key questions:

— Will there be enough plant capacity to produce all the goods and services buyers will seek? (A matter of interpretation, but there are some indications capacity was strained.)

— Can our employers find the labor they will require to man their production lines? (There were many problems, of course, but production wasn't stifled.)

— Can we avoid bottlenecks in major industries of key skills that would hamper our expansion? (There are always some bottlenecks, but many of them also were avoided in the past year.)

— Can we keep a destructive price-wage spiral from getting under way? (A price-wage spiral got under way.)

— Can we move ahead with Great Society programs and at the same time meet our needs for defense? (A question mark right to the end. Opponents of the administration say Great Society spending should have been cut.)

And what is the President thinking now? Any answer would be guesswork, but is there perhaps, a tip from his report of a year ago when he wrote:

"I am convinced that we should levy higher taxes rather than accept inflation — which is the most unjust and capricious form of taxation."

Paltz Insurance Agent Attends Miami Conclave
Thomas W. Roach Jr. of New Paltz, general agent of the Security Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York has just returned from a six-day round of conferences in the Miami-Miami Beach area.

The first of the conferences, the Security Mutual General Agents meeting, convened at the Doral Country Club in suburban Miami. The agenda included life insurance programming and the training of salesmen and was highlighted by an address by Richard E. Pille, chairman and president of the 80-year-old company.

After the general agents meeting, Roach joined other Security Mutual salesmen at the Fontainebleau Hotel, Miami Beach for the company's sales meeting. The privilege of attending the sales meeting was earned on an individual basis by a high level of sales and outstanding service to policyholders. There were four days of business meetings dealing with the security of the policyholder as it relates to life insurance and the life insurance salesman.

Roach was accompanied by his wife Audrey. A native of Kingston, Roach resides with his wife and their six children at 7 Cicero Avenue, New Paltz.

Matthew Vassar (1792-1868) was an American brewer who founded Vassar College.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Tuesday, Dec. 6, the 340th day of 1966. There are 25 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1955, the United States, Great Britain, France and the Soviet Union formally recognized the perpetual neutrality of Austria.

On this date: In 1889, the president of the Civil War Confederacy, Jefferson Davis, died.

In 1938 the Nazis and the French signed a non-aggression pact and Germany promised to pursue a peaceful, neighborly policy toward France.

In 1941, the Nazis were turned back from the gates of Moscow. In 1945, testimony at the Nuremberg trials indicated that Mussolini had tried in 1939 to persuade Hitler to postpone war in Europe, but that Hitler had maintained that the right moment had come.

Also in 1945, famed French entertainer Maurice Chevalier was acquitted of charges that he collaborated with the Germans.

Ten years ago — The State Department announced that Iceland had withdrawn its request that U.S. troops be taken out of that country. One reason for the change of heart was said to have been the behavior of the Russians during the Hungarian Revolution.

Five years ago — President John F. Kennedy, in a speech before the National Association of Manufacturers in New York, sought support for his administration's proposal to liberalize foreign trade policies.

One year ago — The Federal Power Commission told President Johnson that the big blackout in the Northeast in November could have been prevented or greatly eased by more alertness in plants. But, the commission said, there is no guarantee that it won't happen again.

Liken Drawing For Office Space To Sweepstakes

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nearest thing to a national sweepstakes has been run on Capitol Hill and a long shot romped home.

The event was the biennial drawing among freshman members of the House of Representatives for office suites.

Has First Choice

The slip marked "Number 1" entitling bearer to first choice went Monday to the newcomer who will bring up the rear of the alphabetical roll call in the new Congress, Rep.-elect John M. Zwach, R-Minn. He wasn't even there; an aide drew for him.

What Zwach won, however, was first choice among frankly bottom-drawer alternatives. Seniority rules almost everything in the House and before the freshmen even reached for their slips in the bowl all current members and all members returning after a break in service had picked their quarters for the next two years.

None of the 63 freshmen had a crack at a suite in the much-criticized but much-sought-after Rayburn Office Building. There members rate three rooms each, are under the same roof as such amenities as the House swimming pool and have a miniature subway to haul them to the Capitol.

Have Two Rooms

There were, however, enough two-room suites to accommodate all the newcomers in the middle-aged but still handsome Longworth Office Building, just a tunnel away from the Rayburn.

Twenty-eight suites were available in the Cannon Building, the oldest of the three House office buildings, and Zwach picked one of them. Half the Cannon building is closed for remodeling into three-room accommodations. These are expected to be prizes in future years, combining spaciousness with high ceilings and tradition. A maze of status indexes and personal whims determines choice of office locations. Accessibility to one's committee rooms is an important plus. Corner suites are favorites. View is important. Obviously when a constituent looks out of his representative's window, he will be more impressed if he sees the capitol than if he sees a parking lot.

Worker Is Killed, Thrown From Bucket

BALMAT, N.Y. (AP) — Dean Goodison, 36, of Gouverneur, was killed Monday when he and a co-worker were thrown from a bucket suspended from a crane.

Harold E. Drake, 51, of Rosie, was admitted to Watertown Hospital with fractures of the back, right leg and right arm.

The accident occurred at the St. Joseph Lead Co. near this hamlet northeast of Watertown. St. Lawrence County Sheriff's deputies said the two men were being lowered toward a mine entrance when the crane's cable failed. The bucket hit a steel beam, spilling Goodison and Drake onto a truck and then to the ground.

Goodison was the father of five children.

Red Hook Church Starts Addition, Cost Is $90,000

A two-story addition to the Red Hook Methodist Church parish house will provide for Sunday school rooms, offices, a new kitchen, meeting room and other facilities. The approximate cost of the project is $90,000, it was reported.

Harry Halverson of Harry Halverson Associates, 239 Fair St., is the architect. The general contractor is Seymour Builders of Rhinebeck, and Timmins Electric Co., Inc., of Woodstock has the electrical contract.

William Smith of Red Hook is the plumbing and heating contractor.

ALTAMONT, N.Y. (AP) — John Stauffer, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Stauffer of this village southwest of Albany, was killed Monday when struck by an automobile near his home.

Ex-Sen. Douglas Plans Resumption Of Teaching

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., who taught economics at the University of Chicago before his 18-year career in the Senate, will resume the academic life, it was announced today.

The New School for Social Research said Douglas had accepted an appointment to teach economics in the school's graduate faculty of political and social science. Douglas, 74, lost his Senate seat last month to Republican Charles H. Percy. He will take over his new duties during the semester beginning

Jan. 30, President John Everett of the school announced.

He went to the University of Chicago in 1920, and was a full professor there from 1925 until his election to the Senate in 1948.

He is the author or coauthor of 14 books on economics, labor and government.

The New School for Social Research was founded in 1919 to provide the nation's "first university for adults." Its founders included historian James Beard and economist Alvin Johnson, who was its first president.

Advise Restraint To Stop Needless Coronary Attacks

Until science fiction comes true, there's nothing you can do to change two elements in your coronary risk picture; a third you probably wouldn't change, even if you could.

You can't choose your ancestors retroactively; if you were victims of premature coronary heart disease, you're still a twig on the family tree.

*You can't do anything to keep from growing older; time marches on, like it or not.

*And as for your sex, you'd probably rather fight than switch.

If, at this point, you figure that with three strikes against you, you might as well live dangerously, you couldn't be more wrong. Mid-Hudson Heart Association advises.

True, each of these built-in factors can contribute to coronary proneness, but the factors affecting an individual's liability are varying weights, ranging from slight to great. A combination of two, three or more multiplies the risk effect.

Other Factors Cited

A family history of premature cardiovascular disease does appear to raise an individual's risk to some extent. But other risk factors, such as high blood cholesterol, hypertension, obesity and cigarette smoking — separately and in combination — outweigh heredity threefold and more.

As a single risk factor, any hereditary predisposition toward atherosclerosis can be quite insignificant provided you keep blood pressure, weight and blood cholesterol under control — with your doctor's help — and don't smoke cigarettes. An unfavorable family history should serve as an alert. Mid-Hudson Heart Association says, spurring you to take greater care about the risk factors that are under your control.

The highest number of deaths from heart attacks undoubtedly occurs in the older age groups. The Framingham (Mass.) men in their 50s had a four times greater risk of developing coronary disease than did men in their 30s.

Least younger men be lulled into a false sense of security, the Mid-Hudson Heart Association reminds that the disease process culminating in a middle-aged heart attack starts silently early in life. This, then, is the time to take countermeasures — diet, weight control, exercise — to help head off a heart attack in middle age.

According to the Framingham data, American men are five to twenty times more vulnerable to "coronaries" during middle age than are women. In the Framingham population (over 5,000), no woman under age 40 had a heart attack. The protective effect favoring women is generally attributed to the female sex hormone, estrogen. (After the menopause, as estrogen production declines, women become more vulnerable to heart attacks. After age 65, heart attacks strike women almost as frequently as men.)

But female sex hormones are not the whole story. American women did not always have this edge over men with respect to heart attacks in the middle years. Nor do women in less affluent societies than ours.

In 1920, there was very little difference between the sexes in the middle-aged death rate from cardiovascular diseases in the United States. And in less developed countries today, there is much less difference in male vs. female rates of coronary disease, as compared with current rates in economically well developed countries.

The common denominator in both these situations seems to be diet. In underdeveloped economies, where diet is not rich in saturated (animal) fats, the heart attack rates of men are level with those of women. And if we cast a backward look at American men circa 1920, we find that they weighed less, for

Draft Group Turns To Volunteer Army

CHICAGO (AP) — A national draft conference, its discussion of the workings of the Selective Service System behind it, turns today to an alternative: an all-volunteer standing army.

Two economists agree the nation can well afford one. Prof. Milton Friedman of the University of Chicago and Walter Y. Oi of the University of Washington argued in papers presented to the conference that the social and economic costs of the draft now pose far greater costs to the country than would a voluntary army.

World News In Brief

Reds Warn Macao

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China warned authorities in the Portuguese colony of Macao today that they will be held responsible for any consequences arising from pro-Communist riots there over the weekend.

Seven persons were reported killed and hundreds injured in clashes between Chinese demonstrators and territorial police in the six-square-mile Portuguese enclave 65 miles south of Canton.

The riots developed from Communist demonstrations charging brutality by police who stopped demolition of an old building on the site of a pro-Communist school Nov. 15.

No Berlin Wall Passes

BERLIN (AP) — Acting Mayor Heinrich Albertz said Monday night there apparently will be no wall passes this Christmas unless there is a change in the attitude of the Communist East Germans.

Albertz, who is succeeding Willy Brandt, told a press dinner it will be a heavy blow for many families if there are no passes. "But even such a setback will not discourage us."

Since 1963, hundreds of thousands of West Berliners have received Christmas passes to visit relatives in East Berlin. Negotiations with the Communists broke off this year over the East German demand that a new pass pact recognize such things as East German titles and names.

May Try to Move Cappelino Trial

FREEHOLD, N.J. (AP) — Defense lawyer F. Lee Bailey says he may try to have Dr. Carl Cappelino's murder trial shifted to another locale on the grounds that pretrial news reports may have affected prospective jurors.

Cappelino, 34, went on trial Monday for first-degree murder in the 1963 death of retired Army Lt. Col. William E. Farber, a neighbor. The state charges Farber was strangled.

In his opening remarks, Bailey told Superior Court Judge Elvin R. Simmill he would reserve until today the right to request a change of venue or a postponement of the proceedings.

Hit By Car, Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Lena Herbert, 69, of Woodhaven, Queens, was killed today when struck by a car as she crossed Woodhaven Blvd., police report.

The driver of the car was not held.

their heights, than American men since about 1940. Women, on the other hand, are actually slimmer today than they were 40 or 50 years ago. The fact that modern American women are more figure-and-weight-conscious than men, and also more active physically (as housewives and mothers), adds to the advantage they enjoy during the years when the opposite sex is most vulnerable to heart attacks.

So even if men eschew estrogen, they can take a few other valuable tips from their wives: eat less, exercise more, and live longer.

Would Restrict Pennsy-Central Operation Shifts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Erie Lackawanna Railroad wants the Pennsylvania and New York Central Railroads restricted from making any changes in operations before the proposed merger of the two big lines is effective.

Gregory W. Maxwell, president of the Erie Lackawanna, made the plea Monday in written testimony presented to Interstate Commerce Commission examiners.

In its order authorizing the merger, the ICC set up a so-called protective period in which the new railroad would not be allowed to change any operations in a way that would harm the Erie Lackawanna, the Boston and Maine and the Delaware and Hudson Railroads.

The provision does not become effective until the Supreme Court, is consummated. The Erie Lackawanna wants the provision retroactive to last April 27 when the Pennsylvania and New York Central learned of the protective period.

"We are fearful that otherwise they (the Pennsylvania and New York Central) could defeat the purpose by continuing after consummation of the merger practices instituted before April 27 and the consummation..." Maxwell said.

Meanwhile Stuart T. Saunders, board chairman of the Pennsylvania, predicted Monday night in Pittsburgh, Pa., the Penn-Central merger will be consummated "at a fairly early date" — perhaps as early as March 1.

The question is "not whether but when the merger will become effective," Saunders told a dinner gathering of the Greater Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce.

Note Major Rulings In Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are major actions taken Monday by the supreme court:

Ruled unanimously that the Georgia house may not bar Julian Bond from his elected seat because of statements criticizing the draft and U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

Agreed to review a decision by the California Supreme Court that barred racial discrimination in rental or sale of privately owned real estate in the state.

Said it would hear cases from New York, Michigan and Alabama that question application of the "one man, one vote" apportionment rulings to lower levels of government.

Decided to examine the constitutionality of New York State law that permits electronic eavesdropping with court authorization.

Ruled the Interstate Commerce Commission may determine maximum reasonable rates for rail shipments across the U.S. border into Canada.

Refused to review a decision by the U.S. Circuit Court in New York that the loyalty oath required of members in the Directors Guild of America is unreasonable and unlawful.

Refused to review a ruling by the U.S. Circuit Court in Philadelphia that Chrysler Corp. violated its dealer agreement by discontinuing production of DeSoto automobiles.

Note Death Threats

MANILA (AP) — Members of a congressional inquiry into the student demonstration outside President Johnson's hotel during the Manila summit meeting in October have received death threats, the Manila Times reported today.

The paper said anonymous letters were sent to the congressmen, including Carmelo Z. Barbero, chairman of the House Defense Committee.

Body of Woman Is Still Unidentified

There has been no identification of the body of a woman found last Friday floating in the Hudson River near the West Park shore. Officials say the woman was about 45 years of age, five feet five inches tall with brown eyes and brown hair, weighing about 155 pounds. There has been no one in the area reported missing.

It has been established that an abandoned car found at a local gas station was not involved in the disappearance of the woman. Sheriff William B. Martin today said the ownership of the car had been established. It was a car loaned to a local man, which had been parked at the gas station when it broke down. The body was found some two miles from the place where the car was parked.

When the body was recovered from the river and taken to Ulster County morgue in Kingston a considerable sum of money was found pinned to undergarments. There was no identification mark on the clothing. When the body was recovered it was clothed in a light blue dress, beige stockings, no coat or shoes. There was a slight bruise on the chin and the right ankle was fractured. Death was due to asphyxiation. Coroner Henry Hartley of Saugerties is withholding a verdict pending completion of an investigation.

Challenges Haver

immunity and I am subject to any libel suits you may bring against me.

"Among the many abuses of the truth contained in your statement, the most flagrant is your charge that I held Beth St. John over my head at our victory celebration on election night. You must be kidding with a kind of omniscience, Mr. Haver, since you were not even present at that affair. The incident to which you refer never happened. As a matter of fact, the Luniis and the child left the party more than an hour before I came down from my hotel room. This is the statement that I demand you retract and apologize for.

"Let me remind you that despite your attempt to create a smoke-screen of false issues, there is only one important issue at stake in the entire Luniis case. That is the issue of whether a child approaching the age of five should be permanently removed from the only home, family and parents she has ever known in her life. You have chosen to question my motives in this case, and have accused me of using it to serve my 'political' ambitions. You are entitled to your opinion, as wrong as it may be. However, even if I were right—guilty to all of the base charges you and your political associates have made against me — one question still remains: Why isn't the Luniis family permitted to adopt Beth? Neither you, nor Mr. Fitzsimmons, nor Mr. Dye (Town of Kingston supervisor Douglas Dye) have provided one good reason why this happy, healthy and well-adjusted child should be taken away from her home and parents and why the Luniis should not be permitted to adopt her.

Notes 'Wall of Silence'

The Resnick letter also noted that Michael Luniis sought his help only after a "wall of silence" put up by the Ulster County political "establishment" met his attempts to discuss his problem. Resnick further charged that only people who would show disturbance over publicity are "those who have something to hide."

He noted that child psychiatrists, religious leaders, professional social workers and ordinary citizens have backed him up in his interest on behalf of the Luniis; reminded Haver that the Appellate Division threw out the Ulster County Family Court judge's decision in the case; that Fitzsimmons has not been backed up by the state; and that Gov. Rockefeller has called for an investigation of the entire affair.

The letter continued: "I have pointed out Mr. Fitzsimmons' appointment last October was invalid and he is now serving illegally as commissioner of Ulster County. Abraham F. Molynaux concurs in this, and has stated his intention to have Mr. Fitzsimmons reappointed by the Board of Supervisors some time in December."

Says Charges Supported

"In other words, Mr. Haver, despite your intemperate statements, the record shows that every charge I have made has been supported by events, the courts and the authority of New York State. Where are the 'many inaccurate, false and misleading statements' you claim I have made concerning this case? Every responsible agency and official up to the governor himself is questioning the soundness and decency of a decision that would take a child away from her family without one good reason."

The letter concluded with Resnick reminding Haver that his client, Fitzsimmons, could give the Luniis permission to legally adopt Beth with one stroke of the pen. Only then, noted Resnick, will "the clamor and furor which you find so upsetting immediately end."

Killed in Crash

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. (AP) — Douglas Pitt, 47, of nearby East Aurora was killed early today in a two-car collision at the intersection of Route 20A and Abbott Road in this Buffalo suburb.

He lived at 542 Center St.

The eyeball of the blue whale is about five inches in diameter.

BERTRAM WILDE

Bertram Wilde; Was Tire Dealer Almost 40 Years

Bertram G. Wilde, 75, owner and operator of Bert Wilde Inc., a landmark in Kingston at 632 Broadway for almost 40 years, died early this morning at Benedictine Hospital.

Mr. Wilde, a pioneer in the tire and electrical appliance field, received a certificate of merit from the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company in 1962 in recognition of his then more than 35 years service with the company.

Mr. Wilde was born in Shenandoah, Pa., the son of the late Elmer and Elizabeth Parrott Wilde. He is survived by his wife, the former Esther Knorr.

Study Waterway Link Of Gulf, Great Lakes

POINT CLEAR, Ala. (AP) — U.S. Rep. Mike Kirby, D-Ohio, he plans to go to Panama to see if atomic power is feasible in plans to construct two waterway links between the Gulf of Mexico and the Great Lakes.

The Ohio congressman urged a group of delegates to a special waterway resources development conference Monday to sell proposed waterway projects to the public and to congress on their merits before asking Congress to approve funds.

The group meets in Mobile today for final sessions. The two missing links — 253 miles on the Tennessee-Tombigbee Rivers in Mississippi and a link between Lake Erie and the Ohio River — possibly could be completed by atomic blasting, proponents of the project said.

Kirwan said the United States may not be advanced enough to use atomic power on such projects.

Georgia Ruling Later

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court is expected to rule within five weeks on the question of how Georgia should choose its next governor.

During oral arguments at Monday's public session of the high tribunal, the judges not only shot piercing questions at attorneys but fell to disputing among themselves.

Justice Hugo Black, for one, showed no enthusiasm for telling Georgia how to elect a governor.

Only Salt In City

In Kingston, Charles Cole, Public Works department head, said his men also went to work "as soon as we possibly could," and continued throughout the night. He said despite the "extremely bad" condition of streets from 8 to 10 p.m., "we had a minimum of complaints," mostly from side street sections. TODAY'S THOUGHT

By JIM GILPATRIC

It was surprising to discover some people did not know where to mail a letter to our Congressmen and Senators. For that reason, we show both the names and addresses of our Congressmen and Senators. It might be a good idea to cut this from the paper; keep it handy, in case you want to write to them.

Address Senators at Senate Office Building, Washington, 20510, D. C. . . . Address Representatives at House Office Building, Washington, 20515 D. C.

Here are the names of Senators — ROBERT F. KENNEDY JACOB K. JAVITS

Here is the name of Representative — JOSEPH Y. RESNICK

All elected officials are sensitive to public opinion, even more sensitive than a cat with kittens . . . we ourselves should not be insensitive to what they say and do, especially in the way your money is spent by them.

Quick Action Looms On Colony Defiance

LONDON (AP) — The British government made plans today to wage economic war against defiant Rhodesia despite the grim knowledge that the cost could be crippling.

The nation braces for rising turmoil in Africa, more bitterness in the Commonwealth, parliamentary strife at home and a harmful effect on its already shaky finances.

Accepted Implications

These were some of the accepted implications of Prime Minister Harold Wilson's vow to crush Ian Smith's rebel white settler regime in Rhodesia, no matter how long it takes.

One immediate concern was that a run on the pound sterling might develop in stock exchanges reacting nervously to the Rhodesian cabinet's rejection of the peace formula Wilson and Smith drew up last weekend.

The Bank of England was reported to have made 10 million pounds ($28 million) available in New York and to be ready to spend millions more in the foreign exchange market to fend off any sudden onslaught by speculators.

Warning the Rhodesians that "certain inevitable consequences" must flow from their continued defiance of Britain, Wilson ordered full speed ahead on moves to impose a worldwide ban on trade with the breakaway colony.

Readies U.N. Sanctions

Foreign Secretary George Brown was leaving for New York tonight to steer Britain's application for compulsory sanctions through the U.N. Security Council.

A council meeting was scheduled Thursday morning, and quick action was expected. Officials in Washington pledged continued U.S. support for British actions against Rhodesia. But aroused Africans at the United Nations renewed demands that Britain use force.

"Britain should have used force long ago," Ambassador Mousa Leo Keita of Mali, a member of the council, told a reporter. Keita said he was aware that Britain had an economic stake in Rhodesia.

Ambassador Mohamed Fakhrredine of Sudan said Smith's rejection was "a stinging slap in the face for Britain."

"What we Africans must do is encourage the council to impose full mandatory sanctions, not just limited measures," said the Sudanese. "If full mandatory sanctions are imposed, Britain will have to use force against Rhodesia."

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market posted a thin gain early this afternoon despite weakness in London stocks caused by the Rhodesian-British crisis. Trading was moderate.

The market was up from the start, despite weakness in some of the aerospace issues.

Airlines and some of the high-priced glamor stocks on office equipment and photography were especially strong.

Drugs, electronics, oils, rails, utilities, chemicals and steels were among the gainers. Motors, building materials and tobacco were mixed.

The rise came after six straight sessions in which there were more losers than gainers.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .3 at 291.5 with industrials off .1, rails up .3 and utilities up .1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 3.45 at 795.04.

American, Eastern and Unitel airlines each rose more than 2 points while Pan American gained about 1 1/2.

Xerox advanced nearly 5, Polaroid about 4, IBM more than 3.

Gains of a point or better were made by Merck, Pfizer, U.S. Gypsum, Control Data, U.S. Smelting, Sperry Rand and Republic Steel.

Among copper producers, Anaconda advanced more than a point, Phelps Dodge a point or better, Kennecott a fraction and International Nickel nearly a point.

Bristol Myers sank 1 1/2 to 50% on a block of 311,000 shares.

Boeing and United Aircraft were off about a point each, trimming early losses which exceeded 2 points each.

FIREMEN FOR CHEST—Suitable plaques will be awarded to both the Kingston Uniformed Firemen, shown here at the Kingston Kiwanis Club for raising the largest amount of money for the Ulster County Community Chest. It was reported Monday that the Kiwanians had led the results. Today, John F. Schuehler, chairman of the special program committee announced that the total dollars raised by both the Kiwanis and firemen were very close at this point. He commented that the two organizations had led the field since quite early in the program and that leadership had changed hands between them several times. "It is with a spirit of gratitude to both of these organizations as well as to all of the other people who participated in this event that the committee has decided to award a suitable plaque to both groups," Schuehler added. Plaques will be awarded to officers of each group when they are available. In the photo, members of the Kingston Uniformed Fire Fighters Association, Local 461, entertain in circa 1900 style.

20 Become . . .

American patriot insisted on having a Bill of Rights cemented in the Constitution before they would even consider ratifying it. They know perfectly well that the power of government, unchecked, is always a dangerous weapon in any hands.

Justice Bruhn referred to many governments, even in recent recorded history "had at one time or another turned its power, its police and military forces, against its own citizens and then confiscated their property, threw them in jails, prisons or concentration camps, and made mockery of the personal dignity."

"It was to avoid just such a recurrence that our fathers introduced in America a completely new idea of government," Justice Bruhn said. "It was a government based upon the ethical principles of individual integrity and regard for one's neighbors and fellow citizens."

Justice Bruhn said the purpose was not to create government of the wealthy nor of the strong and powerful but rather to create "a government of all the people, rich, poor, strong and weak, where justice, liberty, security and benefits for the majority of the people were assured and guaranteed not alone for themselves but as well for all of us who were to follow."

They were determined that citizens would be endowed with individual freedom, with the right to grow and meet his potential; with the right to develop his abilities and apply them, consistent, of course with the rights of others; the rights to his own thoughts and the right to speak them so long as they were not libelous or slanderous; the right to justice, to have and to make known his grievances and the right to make a better life for his children. Justice Bruhn told the new citizens.

As Americans we enjoy more benefits than people of any other nation and we must realize that "if we are to continue to enjoy those benefits we must fulfill and carry our duties and obligations, that are equally as important."

Justice Bruhn also spoke of the right to vote for our own choice for public office; our right to worship according to the dictates of our own conscience and our duty to respect sacredness of all religions.

He said many of us seem to be "drifting back to the old concept of government that our forefathers feared and rejected."

"Too many of us are looking to our government to guarantee our every need from cradle to grave," Justice Bruhn said. He said it appeared the time had arrived when we need a genuine revival of respect for our laws and orderly processes, a re-awakening of individual responsibility, a genuine and real impatience with those who violate or circumvent our laws and a determined insistence that all our laws be enforced and that due process of law be strictly adhered.

He closed with an appeal that all re-dedicate themselves to the end that this nation of ours will forever remain free and our government, "by the People and for the People will endure forever."

Fire Destroys Trailer

A mobile home fire at the Spring Lake Trailer Park early today has reportedly left a family of three homeless after their 60x12 unit was destroyed. Although details are unavailable at the Freeman's press time, the fire was reportedly discovered at 7:15 in a mobile home occupied by a woman and her two children. Mutual aid officials said the fire had apparently been in progress less than one-half hour before discovery. Cause of the blaze is unknown. Spring Lake volunteer firemen, on the scene until 8:30 a. m., were assisted by volunteers from Ulster No. 6 and Hurley Fire Departments. Sheriff's Department reported the owner as Margie Tiscano. There were no injuries reported.

Plan No Board Meetings

There will be no meeting of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors Thursday evening, the regularly scheduled date. When the session adjourned on Tuesday, Nov. 22, the adjournment of the annual session was subject to the call of the chair. Chairman Charles Relyea has not named a date for the next meeting. The annual budget is in the process of being compiled by Budget Officer Robert A. Snyder. When the budget is completed a public hearing will be held prior to adoption.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

by ROGER E. SPEAR

Investment Advisor & Analyst
'Tips' Usually Provide Short Cut to Broke

Q) "Last year I bought 170 shares of Slick Corp., at 18% and 100 Great American Industries at 12%. I am losing considerably on these stocks. I purchased them on hot tips from people who were supposed to know. Should I hold these for recovery or should I switch into something else that may faster recoup some of my losses?"

A. S. I'm sorry that you had to learn the hard way that hot tips from people supposedly in the know very rarely work out. Successful investment is a result of knowledge, judgement and timing; tips of any sort usually provide only a short cut to going broke.

Both stocks you bought are speculative and pay no dividends. Great American has been under heavy accumulation recently on the American Exchange and I would hold this stock at present low levels for at least partial recovery. Slick Corp. is retiring from the airline business and is in diversified manufacturing. There has been some good earnings recovery recently and I would retain this situation temporarily.

In the future, I would confine myself entirely to high - grade stocks, such as Long Island Lighting and Consolidated Foods.

Q) "I own 1,153 shares of Franklin Life. Should I hold all of these shares or sell part and invest in something else?"

E. M. A) Franklin Life is an excellent company for growth of capital over a period of five-ten years. Although the long-term trend has been up, life insurance stocks — currently depressed — go periodically through rather long cycles of rise and decline in investor favor. They should never be bought or held for short - term appreciation. Your holdings have a present value of about $55,000. I advise you to retain Franklin at this time, but if your commitment represents too large an amount of your capital, I would plan ultimately to diversify by bringing holdings down to a level which is proportionate to the rest of your list.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

McHugh would leave the post. Several other cabinet members also are reported ready to retire as Rockefeller prepares to begin his third term in office.

In 1959, Peterson was named deputy commissioner for Economic Development and McHugh promoted him to first deputy in 1963.

The appointment is subject to Senate confirmation. The Senate will not convene until Jan. 4, but Peterson may take office and serve until the Senate acts. Peterson lives in Schenectady.

Spa Man Killed

DAYTONA BEACH, FLA. (AP)—David T. Burritt, 24, of Saratoga Springs, N.Y., was killed Monday in a four-story fall from the roof of a motel, police reported.

An autopsy showed Burritt died of a ruptured spleen.

Police found a floodlight bulb at the edge of the roof, just above the point where the body was found. They theorized Burritt had unscrewed the bulb, lost his balance and fell.

Dear Abby . . .

Never Will He Marry—

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Hugh and I have gone together for eight years, and I am no closer to marriage now than I was when I first met him. We hit it off perfectly on our first date, and from that moment on I have had no interest in any other man. I am 34, and he is 43.

My problem is Hugh was badly hurt by a woman (they are now divorced) and he doesn't want to take a chance on marrying again. I know our love will last and we could be happy together, but he is afraid of marriage. How can I convince him that he is wrong? WANTS HUGH

DEAR WANTS: You can't. He has already convinced himself that he doesn't want to marry again. And when a man doesn't want to do something, one excuse is as good as another.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 33-year-old male hairdresser who has shared an apartment with a co-worker for two years. Last Sunday I woke up to find that my roommate had brought home a young divorcee and her 3-year-old child, and all three of them were sleeping in the living room. My roommate plans on marrying her next week, and can't see why we can't all live together.

My half of the furnishings represents $3,000. I can't move out and take my half with me. (How do you divide carpeting, draperies, and pairs of tables, lamps, a dinette set, etc.?) He hasn't the cash to buy me out, and I certainly don't want to stay here under these circumstances. What do I do now?

STUCK

DEAR STUCK: If your roommate won't move out with his newly acquired family, then it's your move. Take as much of your "half" of the furnishings as possible, and let him pay you in monthly installments for the balance.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's father has been seen in broad daylight necking with girls who were young enough to be his granddaughters. He lives with us because he cannot hold a steady job.

We have been told by our neighbors, who would have no reason to lie, that my father-in-law brings young girls into the house while we are away. We have talked to him several times about this, but he denies it.

Some of our neighbors will not let their children associate with ours because of the bad reputation my father-in-law has created. Will you please tell us what to do? AT A LOSS

DEAR AT: Your father-in-law is a sick man. Do not leave him alone in your home any more! Consult your family physician and ask for his recommendation. Thus far it is only a medical problem, but unless it is corrected at once, it could be a legal one with serious, messy repercussions.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MARGARET: Don't waste too much time on a man who persistently "jabs" you with unkind remarks. The grave of love is prepared with little digs.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069.

Has Fond Memories

Recall GI Jill And Following At Battle Fronts

By JEAN HELLER

SCARSDALE, N.Y. (AP) — A soldier's name for his girl was Jill. And because they were enlisted men, and wanted to discourage the brass from claiming her, they declared her Government Issue and christened her "GI Jill."

"Hi va fellas. This is GI Jill. Of the livin' Jills. The jukebox Jills. These are the records that were the most requested on your local station record shows back home, the records you have in your own library. So gather a bit closer."

7-Year Run

For seven years — 1943-1950 — GI Jill used her seven-day-a-week radio show to help make life more pleasant for American servicemen around the world.

Today GI Jill, whose real name is Marty Werner, lives in Scarsdale, N.Y., the wife of Tom Werner, a vice president of the National Broadcasting Co. and the mother of a 19-year-old daughter she has lovingly named Jill.

She remembers her GI Jill work as "the most important thing I've ever done in my life." In the moments she can spare from her duties as a housewife, she is writing a screenplay about Jill's life.

Jill often had company when she did her shows. Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, Tommy Dorsey and Frank Sinatra dropped by as often as they could.

Has Mementoes

Mrs. Werner keeps a small wooden box in the bedroom of her house. It contains a few trinkets that have survived since her radio days.

There is a bracelet made of the broken window of a downed airplane, and another of an almost worthless metal alloy used in airplanes. There is a heart-shaped pendant inscribed roughly, "To Jill from Lou, 1944," and another, "New Guinea to Jill."

Mrs. Werner said that "Jill" tried to answer all the letters and send thanks for all the trinkets she got. When the guys took time enough to write, they deserved an answer.

"But then some of the letters would come back with a big stamp, 'Deceased.' You get those and it really hurts."

Vote Dec. 15 on Bond Issue
At Centerville for $30,000

Centerville Fire District taxpayers will vote 7 to 10 p. m. Thursday, Dec. 15 at Centerville Fire Hall on a $30,000 bond issue to cover the costs of two new 750-gallon pumper trucks to meet the fire protection needs of the expanding district.

The bond issue will be paid off $6,000 per year for a five year period. The total cost of the new equipment is $41,850. The balance in excess of the bond issue will be paid from the current budget of the fire district each year.

The Board of Fire Commissioners stressed the great need for added protection by citing the wide expansion of housing and buildings in the area, including a new elementary school at Blue Mountain. In the past 10 years the assessed valuation of the district has nearly doubled. The current figure is $2,205,595. The board has been studying the fire district needs and has inspected fire trucks at various manufacturers' plants for the past year and after long deliberation voted to purchase two new pumper trucks, one for each firehouse at Centerville and Cedar Grove.

The fire district tax rate is expected to be $6.25 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, which is still less than two other fire districts in the township. The new rate will raise $14,000 annually. The commissioners said the new rate is expected to remain at that figure for the duration of the bond issue.

Trucks Described

The two new pumper trucks will be Pioneer — American La France manufactured with two-cycle diesel motors, fully equipped with 750-gallon-per-minute pump and six-cylinder V-type engines. Each truck will have two reels of high pressure booster hose and various other fire fighting equipment. The forward cab of each will hold five men. Service and maintenance is available in Kingston 24 hours of the day and night.

The commissioners propose to keep the old trucks, both 1947 Dodges for the additional service of fighting brush fires and other emergencies.

Purchase of the trucks will also require expansion of housing facilities at both fire stations, already in the early planning stages. The cost of the fire station expansion is borne by the individual fire companies at no cost to the taxpayer.

There have been discussions by the volunteer companies to add one bay to the Cedar Grove fire station on Route 32, and two bays to the Centerville station on Route 212.

Troop 36 Showed
Major Growth in
Two Short Years

Boy Scout Troop 36, sponsored by St. Mary of the Snow, Saugerties, celebrated its 21st anniversary Sunday with a father-and-son banquet and court of honor, attended by 63 fathers, Scouts and guests.

Opening ceremony was conducted by Robert Carr, senior patrol leader, who led the group in the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag. Father Hamilton said grace prior to dinner, which included roast beef and other gourmet items prepared by Joseph Kramer, assistant scoutmaster. Mothers of Troop 36 Auxiliary decorated tables and served the meal.

Following dinner, committee chairman Michael Baxter opened the Court of Honor, at which Scouts who had advanced in rank or earned merit during the past year were recognized.

Advanced to second class Scouts were: Kenneth Blundell, Keith Van Benschoten and Lawrence Swingle. Advanced to first class were: Gary Anderson, Edward Blundell, Robert Carr, Joseph Kramer, John Karanza, Robert Laird and Daniel Spada. Earning merit badges were: Gary Anderson, Joseph Kramer, John Karanza, Keith Van Benschoten and Daniel Spada, all for first aid with the exception of Karanza, whose badge was for both first aid and safety.

Others Honored

Also honored during the ceremony were Edward Blundell and Robert Carr, elected by other Scouts in the troop to become members of the Order of the Arrow.

John Carlson, district commissioner, concluded the court with a brief address on scouting. Also speaking was Ed Flanagan, institutional representative, who recalled that just two years ago, the troop could boast only nine Scouts and no leader. He praised the efforts of Scoutmaster George Karanza and his assistant scoutmasters for rebuilding the troop, which now has a present strength of 36 Scouts.

Karanza was urged to take the floor and did so, saying he felt Troop 36 was one of the best in the Council. He asked all Scouts present to rise and give a hand of applause to those fathers who have been assisting in the construction of the winter camping lodge being built by Scouts of the troop at their Camp Apache campsite.

Guest speakers for the evening were Ed VanGaasbeek and Robert Wilcox, who discussed antique rifles and pistols.

The word quarantine is derived from a Latin word meaning 40.

Blame Careless Smoking by Guest For $40,000 Fire

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Firemen said today a guest's careless smoking caused a $40,000 fire Monday night at the Richford Hotel in downtown Buffalo that resulted in the evacuation of more than 100 persons.

One hotel resident, John Hogan, a 77-year-old diabetic, was overcome by smoke and was taken to a hospital in fair condition.

Several other guests and one fireman were treated for slight smoke inhalation at the scene. Another fireman suffered minor burns.

The fire was confined to the rear portion of the 10th floor of the 12-floor 750-room hotel, the second largest in Buffalo.

A hotel spokesman said about 215 persons were registered, including 28 with rooms on the 10th floor.

Firemen, who estimated the damage, said they had made a thorough search after the flames were extinguished and said everyone had been accounted for.

Mayor Enthused About Future for Mid-Town Section

Saturday was a cold and breezy morning but the warmth of the welcome offered by day-long crowds of Kingston residents who visited the new mid-town Branch of The State of New York National Bank at the corner of Smith Avenue and Grand Street belied the weather.

A group of notables joined the procession of residents and business operators from all over central Kingston in offering the bank the best of success in this, their sixth business office in the Kingston area. Among the former were Kingston Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan; John Naccarato, president of the Central Businessmen's Association; and alderman of the Third Ward, George Svirsky, president of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce and Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk of Kingston.

Sees Rapid Growth

During the traditional ribbon-cutting ceremonies, Mayor Garraghan spoke enthusiastically of the growth he saw forth-coming for the central Broadway area and particularly in the smaller area around the new Smith Avenue Post Office Building and between Cornell and Grand Streets. Factiously, he claimed the increased tax assessments for new projects in the area will help him balance his budget. More seriously, he noted that the growth of this area will be more rapid than most citizens suspect and that therefore he would take steps on the part of the city to keep abreast of such growth. In this connection, he mentioned near-term extension of Railroad Avenue from its present dead-end at the old railroad station to a junction with Smith Avenue. This would permit use of the Broadway overpass connecting Greenkill and Railroad Avenue for through traffic originating in the 10th, 11th and 12th Wards, to reach areas north of Broadway without contributing to traffic congestion on Broadway itself. Such a plan has been part of the city planning map prepared by Raymond & May Associates for the city for the past five years. The mayor also lauded area banks for taking the lead in spurring growth of the entire Ulster County area.

Svirsky Lauds Banks

Alderman Naccarato said that to his certain knowledge people of his ward, particularly in the Flatbush-Clifton Avenue and East Chester to Delaware Avenue areas had been anxiously awaiting the opening of the new midtown branch of the The State of New York National Bank and the growth of other convenient shopping facilities in the newly developed Smith Avenue area. Ease of travel over traffic-free streets and plenty of parking, he said, were the inducements such development will offer to shoppers.

Svirsky, Chamber of Commerce president, noted that the lead of Kingston banks in making capital investments themselves and in making capital available for other projects was the biggest single factor in Kingston's growth.

In introducing the distinguished guests, A. Raymond Atkins, president of The State of New York National Bank, said:

"It is great joy and satisfaction to us this morning to bring this beautiful branch bank and a new concept of convenient banking services to midtown Kingston. That joy is only exceeded by the very eager and cordial response we have enjoyed over the past several months from our new business and residential neighbors who have offered very best wishes for our success and who have told us they have been anticipating this opportunity to move conveniently bank the State of New York National Bank customer-designed way."

"When we say all our six offices are 'designed with you in mind' and that we are 'pacing the growth of a growing Ulster County', we mean it very sincerely. Each of us can prosper in Ulster County only to the degree that all of us enjoy a thriving and pleasant City and environs—and The State of New York National Bank means to continue to be a leading factor in creating such a climate."

"As a small example, much thought went into the selection of the exact site for our Midtown Branch. We wanted it located just a step away from the fine concentration of customer shopping and service facilities on Central Broadway, yet with plenty of on-site and free curbside parking and on a network of good streets which avoid the heavier traffic loads. The corner of Smith Avenue and Grand Street met all those requirements exactly. Therefore, we believe all your banking needs can be met here with a minimum of delay and with a maximum of pleasure."

"We also spent a great deal of thought and time in the original design of this building. We wanted a building exemplifying the fine traditions and heritage of our area. Therefore, we refused to accept just any architectural design but insisted firmly upon the Colonial motif you see here so successfully adapted to modern convenience banking needs. The interior is informal, warm and friendly, reflecting faithfully the image of this bank and its entire staff. Additionally, we have spent thought and money in beautifully landscaping the grounds with evergreens and flowering shrubs. We concur heartily with the Garden Club and other public-spirited organizations who are striving to create a beautiful city. As a consequence, there are approximately twenty large shade trees planted around the property which, in a very few years, will frame a quiet green spot of serenity in the midst of a growing and busy neighborhood. We hope that new commercial neighbors will follow our example so that midtown Kingston can be increasingly pointed out as an area in which it is pleasant to work and shop."

"All of the foregoing adds up to just one thing: The State of New York National Bank has a great faith and belief in the future growth potentials of the Central Broadway area. All of us, bankers, merchants and manufacturers, have a great future ahead of us in this section of Kingston."

Festive Note

Two bank hostesses, garbed in authentic Dutch dress, lent a festive note to the occasion. In view of the Dutch background of this area, The State of New York National Bank arranged last summer to import a new-account premium item and a souvenir item for visitors directly from Holland. They arrived via transatlantic ship in September.

An intensive survey to determine a fast growing area of Kingston and an analysis of growth rate led The State of New York National Bank to petition the United States Comptroller of the Currency for permission to open this Smith Avenue branch just about a year ago. Ground was broken for the building on last July 18.

The building was architecturally designed exclusively for the bank by the LeFebvre Corporation of New York City. Extensive landscaping was designed for the plot by Herbert Cutler. Thomas Kennedy and Son were the general contractors, parking lot blacktopping was done by William Van Kleeck Sons, Inc., and planting was contracted by King's Nursery. Plumbing contractor was R. J. Welsh and Son, electrical contractor Thomas O'Leary and Leo Yonetti for painting.

The Colonial building, most appropriately, is veneered in local Hudson Valley brick from the former Hutton Company plant of the Jove Brick Company located north of Kingston Point.

Take Middleground On Condition of Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Doctors are taking an apparent middle ground on the seriousness of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's gallbladder condition.

"He must have his gallbladder removed soon," said an official announcement from Gettysburg, Pa., Monday, Eisenhower, 76, is to enter Walter Reed Army Hospital Thursday.

But absence of an immediate emergency was indicated by doctors allowing Eisenhower to keep appointments in New York today and Wednesday, and his presence at his Gettysburg desk Monday for routine business.

The operation—for which no date has been announced — will be his second major surgery and fifth serious illness in 11 years.

The specific nature of Eisenhower's gallbladder trouble was not announced, but most often the ailment is caused by gallstones.

States Gets Grant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Housing and Urban Development Department announced approval Monday of a $200,000 grant to aid New York State in a program of statewide comprehensive planning.

Police Probing String of Thefts— In Own Office

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Police have begun a program aimed at halting a string of thefts — in police headquarters, vending machines and offices, even those occupied by detectives, have been the scene of occasional larceny in Rochester's Public Safety Building. Under a security arrangement that took effect Monday night, all persons entering the building after 6 p.m. must register with a police desk sergeant and give a good reason for being there. He then will open locked inner doors leading to the corridors.

Only one elevator would operate at night, and this one bypasses the second floor, the location of the vending machines.

Worker Asphyxiated By Lime Dust Cloud

NORTH TONAWANDA, N.Y. (AP)—A dense cloud of lime dust Monday at a pulp mill on nearby Tonawanda Island resulted in death for a 60-year-old laborer and eye injuries to eight other men.

Mariano Vega of North Tonawanda was asphyxiated. Coroner John R. Kinzly of Niagara County said.

Kinzly said Vega was hosing the inside of a 25-foot-wide storage tank from an opening in the bottom when encrusted lime higher in the structure dislodged and created the cloud. The injured men were discharged from DeGraff Memorial Hospital here after treatment for eye burns.

The plant is operated by the International Paper Co. Vega's address was 247 Vandervoort St.

Wassaic Accepting Gifts for Retarded

Gifts, clothes, toys, and other useful items are still being accepted by the Ulster County chapter of the NYS Association for Retarded Children to be distributed at Wassaic State School for Handicapped and Christmas holidays.

The Ulster County Office, 101 Green Street, Kingston, said it will continue to accept presents through December 8. Still needed are such things as coats, belts, suspenders, wallets, sweaters, gloves, hats and toilet articles for boys and men of all ages.

Women and girls at the institution need hairbrushes, barrettes, curlers, ribbons, coat sweaters, gloves, aprons, housedresses, and pocketbooks, new or used in all cases, although used items should be in good condition. The girls and women also like toilet water, hand lotion, jewelry, and talcum powder.

Other items, which all buildings can use, are records, children's books, puzzles, games, balloons, colored soap, playing cards, magazines and comics.

Since many of the 4000 patients are small children, the Ulster Chapter said that stuffed toys and soft rubber or plastic toys, which have been outgrown by other children are most welcome.

More than half the patients at the State School are reported to be friendly.

Beef

Cattle are important to man's existence and have been since prehistoric times. They are thought to have originated in Asia and Europe where fossils 3 to 4 million years old have been found.

The economic value of cattle to man is paralleled by the importance of cattle to the folklores and religions of various civilizations, says Louis M. Karko, Extension Home Economist. Ancient Egyptians worshipped the sacred bulls, Apis and Minis, as principal gods. Other peoples, such as the Greeks, Cretans, and Romans, also had gods in the form of cows and bulls. Remember the golden calf in the Bible?

The new world brought new opportunities for beef cattle to make their mark on history. Eric the Red, a bold Norse explorer, introduced cattle to North America in 981 A.D. Among the first to bring cows and bulls to America's mainland was Hernando Cortes from Spain. The Texas Longhorns, now almost extinct, are descendants of the Spanish cattle.

Beef is one of our most popular meats. The supply of beef during the next two months are expected to be a little large, but retail prices are not expected to decline from present levels. Federal grading of beef was started in 1927. Most grocers carry only the grades of meat which meets the needs of their customers. Therefore, only the grades U.S. Choice and U.S. Good are ordinarily found as fresh meat in retail markets.

USDA Prime beef is primarily used by hotels and restaurants. This grade contains a generous amount of marbling fat which melts during cooking and contributes juices and flavor to the meat.

USDA Choice beef is tender and juicy with less fat than Prime beef. The fat covering and the marbling fat will vary from moderate for beef from younger animals to moderately abundant for beef from older animals. USDA Good beef is less juicy than Prime or Choice beef, since it has less fat. However, this grade pleases beefeaters who enjoy lean meat with an acceptable degree of tenderness and juiciness.

Other forms of beef are cured; such as dried or chipped beef, corned beef and beef sausages such as frankfurters and bologna.

Approximately 22 women will be installed as members of the Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club Tuesday, Dec. 13 at a dinner-meeting and Christmas party in the Governor Clinton Hotel. The December installation is the result of a membership campaign the club has been conducting under the chairmanship of Mrs. Vera Bishop, second vice president.

Area P-TA News

Kerkhonson Club

The November meeting of the Kerkhonson Parent-Teacher Association was held recently. A short business meeting was conducted which included discussion of the poor showing of parents at meetings.

An idea was presented and adopted to secure a plaque as a P-TA Attendance Award. This would be moved monthly from class to class having most parents present at that meeting. Attendance, however, was not the only poor showing. Of the questionnaires distributed to all the school students only 36 were returned for tabulation.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Lois Van Swearington, district director of the Taconic P-TA, spoke on the aims of the P-TA, how it started and what it is trying to accomplish. She stressed the importance needed throughout the school. She mentioned also, the necessity and value of having "room representatives." The "room representative" is the link between the parent and the teacher if these two have a difficult time getting together or making themselves understood. She explained the rewards of Leadership Training which is made available to officers of P-TA, the purpose of state conventions, and the breakdown of the P-TA districts.

'Barefoot in the Park' Opens Here Tonight

Neil Simon, Broadway golden boy-playwright, whose comedy Barefoot in the Park comes to Community Theater tonight, has scored five triumphant hits in New York in a row, beginning with Come Blow Your Horn in 1961, followed by the musical Little Me in 1962, Barefoot in 1963, The Odd Couple in 1965 and 1966.

NEIL SIMON

Simon's aunt Gussie is Mrs. Charles Warshawer, who is affiliated with Colonial Knitwear, Kingston. In Simon's first hit, Come Blow Your Horn, his aunt was constantly being referred to as "Aunt Gussie." Gussie made a big laugh entrance in the very last minute of the play, when the hero (played by the TV personality Hal March) opens his apartment door expecting a luscious blonde and finds, instead, Aunt Gussie.

Barefoot is being sent here by Saint Suber, producer of the original New York production as part of a nation-wide tour with stage and screen star Sylvia Sydney in the lead role. Others in the cast are Pamela Grey as a flighty young bride, Don Fenwick as her trying-to-cope young bridegroom, and Woody Romoff as a charming deadbeat neighbor.

Sisterhood Conducts Annual Dinner; Has Meeting of Directors

Two events were conducted recently by the Sisterhood of Agudas Achim Congregation, first the Paid-Up membership dinner and later a meeting of the board of directors.

The dinner, an annual event, included induction of 12 new members into the sisterhood. Those inducted, each presented with a book of prayers and blessings, included the Mmes. Milton Wisbeck, Hy Gardian, Lewis Eaton, Sheldon Levy, Lester Solomon, Allan Bush, Robert Selinger, Alice Seligman, William Fasane, Lewis Kirschner, Bernard Sachs and Martin Hammer. Entertainment for the evening included a parody, "Yiddle on the Roof," written and produced by Mrs. Saul Schechter. The cast included the Mmes. Jack Parnett, Lewis Eaton, Edwin Bahl, Nathan Katasky and Hy Gardian. Mrs. Michael Weiner was accompanist.

The board meeting, held in the home of Mrs. Ben Suskind, 109 Hone Street, Kingston, was highlighted by preparations for a Hanukkah celebration to be held at the next board meeting in the vestry hall at 8 p. m., Dec. 14. Featured at the celebration will be an exchange of gifts and entertainment by synagogue youth.

Says New Musical I Do, I Do Has Beguiling Charm

By WILLIAM GLOVER

Associated Press Drama Critic NEW YORK (AP) — A little two-role comedy has been converted into a big two-role musical with beguiling charm in "I Do! I Do!" which Monday night began a long, long run at Broadway's 46th Street Theater.

Mary Martin and Robert Preston make a superb team for the sentimental marriage fable based upon Jan De Hartog's noted play "The Fourposter." Credit, too, a witty, melodic score by Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt, and director Gower Champion for putting everything together with pace, grace and taste.

It's a good thing all that adroit artistry is on hand, for the basic story is predictably simple-hearted every moment, from nuptial innocence to baby-rearing, bickering, extracurricular dalliance and reunion. How such material is used is what counts.

Miss Martin makes the trip from youth to age with more than mere gusty fervor and surface skill. She becomes those elder episodes with a convincing reality. Preston is at his best in brisk music hall turns that somehow fit the plot.

The music fits the valentine spirit of the affair with lyrics that are perceptively droll and tunes brimming with melody. Just about everything that happens to everything that happens is deftly cited to thunderous opening night applause.

What other press critics said: Norman Nadel, World Journal Tribune: "What makes 'I Do! I Do!' unique is that you're always watching two of the most talented and entertaining performers in the American musical theater."

very high-powered Blitzen to a very low-powered one horse shay."

Richard Watts Jr., Post: "I Do! I Do!" which opened last night is charming, tuneful, warm-hearted and delightful, and it is acted to perfection."

A HIGH "STAND" FOR VISIBILITY

Tiger hunters in India use a platform in a tree to wait for game to be decoyed near by. The same idea may be used by deer, bear, and other hunters—using a fallen tree or one they can climb, a high boulder, et cetera, that permits unobstructed view down into thick brush, hunters often see game otherwise hidden.

Notre Dame Takes National Grid Title

Win Last Poll By Big Margin

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Coach Ara Parseghian and the student body took the fact that Notre Dame was named the nation's national collegiate football champions in stride Monday night.

The student body had little chance to demonstrate "I guess the students were studying and not listening to their radios," said a campus spokesman. "They'll know all about it Tuesday when the Chicago morning papers hit the campus."

"But, let's face it. They expected to be No. 1." Parseghian, who was informed of the vote before leaving for Chicago and the annual Knute Rockne Memorial Awards Dinner, said he was "absolutely delighted."

In the preseason poll, Notre Dame was ranked sixth with Michigan State No. 1. The Irish kept edging up in the first four weeks with victories over Purdue, Northwestern and Army. When Notre Dame hammered North Carolina 32-0 while Michigan State was struggling to an 11-8 victory over Ohio State, the Irish took the top rung and remained there although Notre Dame and Michigan State played to a 10-10 tie late in the campaign.

The "Tie" Incident
Notre Dame had an opportunity to gamble for a last ditch victory against Michigan State but the Irish elected to run out the clock.

The move became a controversial high point of the season but Parseghian, his forces depleted by injuries, said his men had played great football for 59 1/2 minutes and he wasn't going to gamble and lose in the final seconds of the game.

The Irish eliminated all doubt of their No. 1 status when they clobbered Rose Bowl bound Southern California 51-0 in the final game of the season.

Notre Dame finished up in the final poll with 41 first place votes and 506 points on a 10-9-8 etc. basis.

Michigan State with eight first place votes was second with 471 points followed by Alabama, the only undefeated, untied team in the nation, with seven first place votes and 428 points.

Georgia finished fourth with 332 points followed by UCLA with 291, Nebraska with 224, Purdue 193, Georgia Tech 165, Miami, Fla., 76 and Southern Methodist 62.

The final 1966, Top Ten, with season records and total points on a 10-9-8 etc. basis:

1. Notre Dame	9-0-1	506
2. Mich. State	9-0-1	471
3. Alabama	10-0-0	428
4. Georgia	9-1-0	332
5. UCLA	9-1-0	291
6. Nebraska	9-1-0	224
7. Purdue	8-2-0	193
8. Georgia Tech	9-1-0	165
9. Miami, Fla.	7-2-1	76
10. SMU	8-2-0	62

GARY PETERS

JIM KAAT

Lefthanders Kaat and Peters American League Leaders

BOSTON (AP)—A pair of left-handers, Gary Peters of the Chicago White Sox and Jim Kaat of the Minnesota Twins, captured top honors today in official 1966 pitching records announced by American League President Joe Cronin.

Peters led the league with a 1.98 earned run average, one of the lowest since Chicago's Ed Cicotte posted a 1.53 in 1917. He allowed only 45 earned runs in 205 innings while winning 12 games and losing 10.

Kaat, who had a 25-13 record as the Twins were dethroned as champions by Baltimore, was the biggest winner. He also started the most complete games (19) and the most innings (305), faced the most batters (1,154) and gave up the most hits 271.

Baltimore, which easily won the pennant and went on to a four-game sweep of the Los Angeles Dodgers in the World Series, had only one pitcher among the top 15 in ERA, based on a minimum of 162 innings.

Orioles southpaw Dave McNally, who had a 13-6 record, was 13th with an earned run average of 3.17. However, the Baltimore staff was fourth in ERA with 3.32, trailing only Chicago (2.68), Minnesota (3.13), and Cleveland (3.23).

Joel Horlen, the Chicago right-hander with a 10-13 record, was runner-up to Peters in ERA with a 2.43 mark.

Cleveland southpaw Sam McDowell, who was sidelined several weeks with arm trouble, led the league for the second straight year in strikeouts. He fanned 225, far short of the 325 he struck out in 1965.

Cleveland's Sonny Siebert hurled the only no-hitter, a 2-0 decision over Washington June 10.

Rookie right-hander Jim Nash of the Kansas City Athletics posted the highest percentage—.923—with a 12-1 record.

UCCC Hosts Orange, New Paltz at Marist

The visitors have an upset victory over New York Community and a setback to the West Point Plebe squad. Ulster has decided Albany Pharmacy and Fashion Institute.

New Paltz, with a 1-1 record, travels to Lourdes gym in Poughkeepsie to meet unbeaten Marist College. The Hawks topped Plattsburgh and were walloped by C. W. Post.

Marist, coached by Ron Petro, former Manhattan College star, has stopped Danbury and Kings College of Pennsylvania. This one is an 8:30 game with the jayvee tilt listed for 6:30.

UCLA Top Cage Team

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Low Alcindor's sensational debut as a college pivotman has given powerful UCLA an early stranglehold in The Associated Press basketball ratings.

The Bruins, who drubbed Southern California 105-60 in their season opener behind a 56-point spree by 7-foot-1 soph Alcindor, top The AP's national poll by an overwhelming margin.

A somewhat shaky leader in last week's pre-season poll, UCLA drew 32 of 34 first-place votes in this week's ballot of sports writers and broadcasters.

The Bruins, who led runnerup Texas Western by 20 points a week ago, hold a 337-288 point bulge today over the defending NCAA champions.

Texas Western romped to two victories last week and retained its second-place edge over Kentucky, which opened with a 104-84 triumph over Virginia. The Miners drew one of the remaining first-place votes while fourth-ranked Louisville received the other.

Louisville, a 99-81 winner over Georgetown in its opener, moved up one notch from fifth, replacing Duke.

The vote was based on results of games through last Saturday night and the ballots all were in before Illinois stunned Kentucky 98-97 in overtime and Michigan knocked off Houston 86-73 Monday night.

The Top Ten with first-place votes in parentheses, and total points on basis of 10 for first place, 9 for 2, etc.:

1. UCLA (32)	337
2. Texas Western (1)	288
3. Kentucky	250
4. Louisville (1)	170
5. Houston	135

Interzone Cup Is Won by Brazil

CALCUTTA, India (AP)—India won the Davis Cup Interzone tennis final from Brazil today, three matches to two, and earned the right to meet Australia in the Challenge Round Dec. 26-28.

Ramanathan Krishnan defeated Thomas Koch in the deciding singles match 3-6, 6-4, 10-12, 7-5, 6-2.

The match had been halted by darkness Monday with Koch leading two sets to one. But Krishnan rallied today and won the last two sets.

In the fourth set, Krishnan fought back after being down 1-5. He won the next six games in a row with magnificent stroke play. Koch tried a net attack but passed repeatedly good back-hand cross court shots and volleys.

Publisher Buys Cincinnati Reds

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—William Orville DeWitt, the only general manager ever to have had pennant winners in both major leagues, has bowed out as owner-president of the Cincinnati Reds in favor of a group of local investors.

Francis L. Dale, publisher of the Cincinnati Enquirer, announced Monday night his group has bought all the baseball team's stock for $7 million and will sign a 40-year lease with the city to help Cincinnati build a new riverfront stadium.

DeWitt, a baseball veteran who four years ago bought the Reds for a reported $4.6 million, will continue running the club until the deal is approved by the National League, probably sometime in January. Manager Dave Bristol and the Reds' front office staff also will continue in their jobs.

Roger Peabody

Noted Eastern Ski Official Will Address Trail Sweepers

Roger Peabody, executive director of the United States Eastern Amateur Ski Association, makes a rare public appearance when he addresses the Trail Sweepers Ski Club of Kingston, Thursday at 8 p. m. at the Moose Lodge.

A resident of Franconia, N. H., Peabody has been executive director of USEASA since 1954.

This will mark his first visit with the Sweepers at their home base.

Peabody's visit to Kingston is in recognition of the high rating of the Sweepers in USEASA circles. With a membership of nearly 350, the Sweepers have consistently placed in the top five among USEASA clubs in the annual competition for the "Ski Club of America" award made by the association.

"For this reason," said Peabody, "I'm anxious to see the Trail Sweepers in action and look forward to their meeting."

Directed Ski School

The 46-year-old Peabody was president of the Franconia, N. H. Ski Club from 1946-48 and directed the Profile Ski School in Franconia in the 1946-47 season. He also served as Section Chief of the National Ski Patrol System from 1946-53 and in 1954 became USEASA's executive director.

Outside the ski world, Peabody was president of the New Hampshire Approved Basketball Officials in 1952-53 and director of the Franconia Notch State reservation from 1950-1960. He is a past president of Dow Academy trustees (1954-1960); trustee of Franconia College (1960-64) and a director of the Littleton, N. H. Savings Bank.

Peabody was named recipient of the Wilder Trophy in 1958, in recognition of his outstanding contributions to junior skiing on a national scale.

Prof's Supporting Chancellor in Student Dispute

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — University of California professors overwhelmingly are backing Chancellor Roger W. Heyns in his stand against a student boycott of classes.

The ballot favoring Heyns' position came as he prepared for a special board of regents meeting today on the Berkeley campus dispute.

"We affirm our confidence in the chancellor's leadership and pledge our continued support and cooperation," 795 professors of the Academic Senate voted Monday. The vote against Heyns' actions was 28.

The support appeared to turn the question back to the Student Strike Committee which has backed classroom boycotts since last Wednesday when an altercation broke out over a Navy recruiting table in the Student Union.

In 1475, William Caxton printed the first book in English.

Here are TEN COMMANDMENTS, the author of which is unknown, but they are worth careful consideration:

1. Keep skid chains on your tongue. Say less than you think.
2. Make promises sparingly and keep them faithfully.
3. Never let an opportunity pass to say a kind and encouraging thing to or about somebody. Praise good work done, regardless of who did it.
4. Be interested in others—interested in their pursuits, their welfare, their homes and their families.
5. Be cheerful. Hide your worries under a pleasant smile.
6. Preserve an open mind on all debatable questions. Discuss, but don't argue.
7. Let your virtues, if you have any, speak for themselves and refuse to talk of another's vices. Discourage gossip.
8. Be careful of other's feelings. Wit and humor at the other fellow's expense are rarely worth the effort and may hurt where least expected.
10. Don't be too anxious about getting just dues.

Radio Announcer — The 10 minutes' silence on your radio, ladies and gentlemen, was not due to a technical breakdown, but was sent to you by courtesy of Blanko Noiseless Typewriters.

A woman was trying to impress her friends at a party one afternoon.

Why We Say--

DUKE: If you put up your "dukes", you prepare your fists for a fight. The expression started because the Duke of Wellington had a large nose referred to as a "duke." A large fist was soon called a "duke buster" (or nose buster) and finally fists were just called dukes.

Mrs. Briggs—My family's ancestry is very old. It dates back to the days of King John of England.

Then, turning to a woman sitting nearby, she said condescendingly, Mrs. Briggs—How old is your family, my dear? Mrs. Briggs (with a smile) — Well, I can't really say. All of our family records were lost in the flood.

When money is found growing on trees, there is usually some grafting going on.

Lady (in a pet store) — I like this dog, but his legs are too short.

Salesman — Too short. Why, madam, they all four reach the floor.

Warn West Coast Of Heavy Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain drenched the Pacific Coast today and chanced to snow on the upper slopes of the Rockies.

Drivers were warned to expect heavy snow over wide areas of the West, including the mountainous areas of California, Nevada, Utah, southern Idaho, northern Arizona and northern New Mexico.

5 Inches Fell

Five inches of new snow fell in six hours at Craig, Colo., and four inches were measured at Austin, Nev. Glasgow and Miles City in Montana reported one inch of new snow.

In California, the flooding Kern River lifted a 16-by-20 foot warehouse off its foundation and carried it downstream. Heavy downpours caused the Kern to rise five feet from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

There were 12 inches of snow on the ground at Truckee, Calif. In the Sierra Nevada, the Alpine Ski Resort near Squaw Valley reported 24 inches of new snow, bringing the total on the ground to 48 to 51 inches.

Nine fatal accidents occurred on rain-slick streets in the Los Angeles area.

Skiers Happy

Only skiers were expected to be enthusiastic at the prospect of new and heavier snowfall. Ski trails on Western mountains have had little snow so far this year.

Wintry weather prevailed elsewhere. Occasional sleet, freezing rain and freezing drizzle prompted hazardous-driving warnings across most of New England.

Fog drifted through the nation's midsection from the Missouri Valley across the Ohio Valley.

Northern and southern temperatures were much the same as a band of cool air moved into the Southeast and southerly winds pushed warm air up the Mississippi Valley.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 2 below zero at C Bank, Mont., to 74 at Thermal, Calif.

Guard Will Loan Vehicles to PO Again for Yule

ALBANY — More than 200 New York Army National Guard vehicles will be loaned to Post Offices throughout the State to assist in mail deliveries during the 1966 Christmas holiday season, Major General A. C. O'Hara, Chief of Staff to the Governor, announced today.

"This is an annual service to community postmasters performed by the New York Army National Guard," General O'Hara said. "Requests from postmasters for the loan of vehicles are made to unit commanders stationed in their communities," Gen. O'Hara added.

"Only vehicles not required for unit training or administration are loaned on a round-the-clock basis. The vehicles — 2½-ton trucks and smaller — will be used by post offices during December when the avalanche of Christmas mail and packages hits its peak."

Qualified New York Army National Guard drivers will operate the 2½-ton trucks, but the smaller ones are loaned without drivers, to be operated by the post office.

Post offices in the New York City Metropolitan area, Brooklyn, Long Island, Yonkers, Peekskill, Newburgh, Kingston, Albany, Rochester, Utica, Syracuse and Buffalo will be using the vehicles throughout December.

The vehicles will be easily identified as they will display large banners on each side, proclaiming: "Season's Greetings, Helping Santa—Your National Guard."

Air Again...

Tonkin last week, killing 17 Chinese fishermen and wounding 29 others. U.S. officials declined to comment on the charge.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov demanded in the United Nations that the United States stop bombing North Viet Nam. He said the only way to peace was an end of what he called U.S. aggression of Vietnamese soil. He also called for American troops to leave South Viet Nam.

Report Heavy Damage
In the raids on the north Monday, U.S. pilots reported inflicting heavy damage to the vital Yen Bai railroad yards 76 miles northwest of Hanoi, silencing 11 anti-aircraft gun positions, damaging a missile site and destroying a radar site.

Navy, Air Force and Marine pilots flew 85 bombing missions against the north Monday, or 250 to 300 individual strikes.

The mass surrender of 63 Viet Cong on the coast 142 miles southwest of Saigon came after an intensive leaflet propaganda campaign.

New Horror Barred

Officials said the psychological warfare drive also resulted in the appeal for help from the 2,250 refugees in the area, who included some 1,200 children.

Officials said the refugees told them the Viet Cong tied weights to four farmers and drowned them in the Gulf of Siam in reprisal for allied air strikes in the area.

A Vietnamese military spokesman also released casualty figures for last week resulting from Viet Cong terrorism. He said 22 civilians were killed, 42 wounded and 58 were kidnapped. Those killed, he said, included a village chief, a policeman and a revolutionary development cadre.

Vietnamese headquarters also reported government forces killed 14 Viet Cong in three scattered ground engagements.

U.S. headquarters announced the start of a new operation, named Mississippi, by units of the 1st Marine Division in the northern part of South Viet Nam.

The Marines said they killed eight Communist soldiers and captured 19 since the operation started Nov. 29 about 25 miles southwest of Da Nang.

U.S. pilots flew 391 sorties over South Viet Nam Monday and South Vietnamese pilots flew 140.

Tells of Fishing in Bayou For Crappies As Word Came

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-five years ago Wednesday was a gray day, cold, even in Louisiana. I was fishing in Salt Bayou, 30 miles from New Orleans, with a man who had taught English in some of the best schools in the East. He had an elegant touch, even toward fish. But we didn't catch any.

And when the sun began to dissolve behind the trees we went across the bayou, into the channel with the tall grass, keeping the outboard motor low. We pulled up at the wharf near Big Sam's boathouse. The little man who worked for him came skipping and hopping down to see us.

Has Crappies

"This place is loaded with crappies," he said. "You ought to try them." We did. He kept telling us where they were, here, there, there. But we didn't get any. We were shaking in the cold. The sun was gone. We packed up and went up to the boathouse.

Big Sam was there, behind the counter where he sold soft drinks and sandwiches. But he hardly said hello to us. He was looking up at a radio on a shelf on the wall, and listening. There were two strangers there, too, looking up and listening.

And the voice on the radio was saying the Japanese had sunk the battleship Arizona. We thought we had come in late on a program. I asked Sam what the program was. He said there was no program. He said the Japanese had attacked Pearl Harbor. I asked him if he was kidding. He said: "No, just listen." The voice was saying more.

Had Heard News

I looked at the little man who had been jumping up and down about the crappies. I asked him: "Did you know about the Japanese when you came down to the dock?" He said: "Yes." I said: "Why didn't you tell us?" He said: "I never thought about it."

The English teacher and I listened a few minutes more. We walked out into the dark cold. Then, and I don't know why, we suddenly shook hands as if we were saying goodbye to each other or to something. And one of us said: "This is where our lives change." And they did. And, while the little man who liked crappies forgot about Pearl Harbor, practically nobody else has, ever since, or could.

There were a lot of changes. For, while trying to blow up Pearl Harbor was just a part of World War II, what really blew up was the roof of a world which then became a mixed bag of blessings and dismay for the next quarter of a century.

Trip Through Swamp

Until the big war, for most people the world had been a lifelong journey through a dismal swamp where, except for Japan, almost every country in Asia and Africa was centuries behind the times, held in outright thralldom by the big powers of the West, or under the Western thumb.

The war brought changes as fantastic as the age of exploration. Everywhere new nations were born with a chance for the first time to achieve their own ecstasy or agony.

Marine to Get Medal of Honor, First for Viet

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson wrestles again with Viet Nam war costs today and awards the Medal of Honor to a three-wounded Marine who killed at least eight Viet Cong in a rice paddy fire fight.

Flying to the Texas capital for the medal presentation and discussion of defense spending were Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Sgt. Robert Emmett O'Malley, 25, of Woodside, N.Y., is the first Marine to earn the Medal of Honor in Viet Nam. He is cited for gallantry near Chu Lai during Operation Starlight Aug. 18, 1965.

O'Malley, who has been living with his parents since recuperating from wounds of that engagement was put back on active duty just for today — so he could wear dress blues for the medal award ceremony at the Austin post office.

Johnson was going from there to his office suite in the neighborhood federal building to confer with McNamara and the Joint chiefs.

Ike Cancels Trip

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower today canceled a trip to New York because of the widespread public concern over his health, a spokesman said.

The spokesman said Eisenhower will leave from Gettysburg probably Thursday morning to enter Walter Reed Hospital in Washington for a gallbladder operation.

The 76-year-old ex-President was scheduled to go to New York today for a Football Hall of Fame dinner and a luncheon with a business group.

The spokesman said Eisenhower felt the public concern for his health might distract from the real purpose of the football banquet.
